U.S. Will Dispatch More Military Advisers, Weapons To Viet Nam

Announcement Of Boost In Aid Made By Khanh

SAIGON (UPI) — Premier Mai Gen. Nguyen Khanh announced Monday after a conference with U. S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor that the United States would increase the number of military advisers in Viet Nam and send more war equipment.

Khanh did not announce figures but in Washington administration officials said Monday that about 5,000 more U. S. military personnel will be sent to South Viet Nam over the next few months to help set up the war against Communist guerrillas.

Officials in Washington said the additional personnel — including Special Forces trained in anti-guerrilla warfare and Army advisers — would boost to 21,000 the number of American troops in this country.

President Johnson was reported earlier this month to be prepared to go as high as necessary in the American assistance program to bring final victory to South Viet Nam. There has been increasing evidence that the Viet Cong rebels are being assisted by troops from Communist North Viet Nam.

Khanh's announcement followed a series of spectacular Communist victories in a series of ambushes in the south and increased threats to South Viet Nam's four northernmost provinces. But it came as the government itself announced a successful major offensive in Phu Yen Province in central Viet Nam.

A U. S. military spokesman said Vietnamese troops had killed 36 Viet Cong guerrillas and captured another in only one phase of the battle. The battle was fought seven miles northwest of the provincial capital town of Tuy Hoa, 235 miles northwest of Saigon.

Phu Yen was one of the quietest provinces until the Reds appeared in the coastal lowlands July 15, attacking in six places.

Premier Khanh said the fresh American troops would be used as additional advisers on the battlefield together with local government and U. S. Army Special Forces troops. He said additional civilian advisers also had been promised.

Khanh said there would be an increase of equipment, such as transport planes and technicians for maintenance and communications.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Johnson welcomed Malagasy President Philibert Tsiranana to the United States Monday as White House staff members made plans for a visit to Washington next week of U. N. Secretary General Thant.

Tsiranana arrived by helicopter from Philadelphia on the first visit by an African chief of state since Johnson became President.

Johnson, greeting him on the White House lawn, said, "Liberty is not license. Freedom is not a favor — security is not to be had without sacrifice."

Tsiranana, whose island nation formerly was known as Madagascar, responded with praise for enactment of the new civil rights measure in the United States.

4-Day, 2-Man Space Mission Slated By U.S.

HOUSTON (UPI) — The United States will launch astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II into orbit aboard a two-man Gemini capsule next spring to spend a record four days in space.

The two "second generation" astronauts, who joined the space program 22 months ago, will ride a two-stage Titan-2 rocket into the skies from Cape Kennedy, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said in a surprise announcement Monday.

The voyage of McDivitt and White will follow the three-orbit Gemini inaugural flight of fellow astronauts Virgil I. Grisom and John W. Young, now set for late this year or early in 1965.

If the McDivitt-White mission goes according to schedule, it will more than double the U.S. record set by Mercury astronaut L. Gordon Cooper Jr., who soared 22.9 times around the globe aboard his Faith-7 space capsule May 15-16, 1963.

However, the flight still would fall far short of the world record 62 orbits in 119 hours, six minutes, set 13 months ago by Russian cosmonaut Valery Bykovsky.

Two other astronauts, Frank Borman and James A. Lovell Jr., were selected as "backup" pilots for the four-day flight. They would step in should any thing happen to either McDivitt or White at the last minute.

Static Forces 24-Hour Delay In U.S. Moon Shot

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Noise interference in a ground-based guidance transmitter Monday forced a 24-hour postponement of an attempt to launch the Ranger 7 spacecraft on a picture-taking mission to the moon.

The launching was rescheduled for Tuesday between 11:50 a.m. and 1:58 p.m. (EST).

The launch crew had a similar short period in which to launch the Atlas-Agena booster rocket on the desired course Monday but could not correct the trouble in time. The count-down on the 10-story-tall rocket had advanced to within 22 minutes of liftoff when the problem developed.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said a high noise level, something like

19 Die In Plunge Of French Bus

VITTEL, France (UPI) — Nineteen men and women of a French folk dancing troupe were killed Monday when their bus ran off a bridge and plunged 36 feet onto a railroad track and burst into flames. Eight children were injured. Police said the children were seated in the rear of the bus when it crashed through a barbed wire fence on the bridge and fell to the tracks below.

Nicole Verdaget, 15, managed to crawl out of the wreckage and scramble up to the road despite a broken collarbone to hail a passing motorist. The children were pulled out of the burning wreck and taken to the hospital at Vittel where two were reported in serious condition.

Plan For New U.S. Printing Plant Hit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., Monday criticized a $2.5 million appropriation for a new government printing building as "another multi-million Washington white elephant."

Proxmire said in a statement that he would seek to knock out the money when the annual legislative appropriation bill comes before the Senate for action.

The Wisconsin Democrat suggested that the government contract out more work to private printing companies, thereby avoiding the need for a new federal plant to handle rush printing.

The $2.5 million outlay, he said, merely would be the down payment on a facility that eventually would cost $47.5 million, and provide unfair competition for private printing companies.

French Quarry Cave-In Buries 13 Workmen

CHAMPAGNOLE, France (AP) — The collapse of an underground gallery deep in a limestone mine entombed 13 men Monday, a mine official said.

Faint taps were picked up by a microphone, giving new hope that the sealed-in workers were still alive.

First official reports said 16 men were entombed, but the mine official said a recheck showed 13 were below when the rock fell.

The collapse of a 1,600-foot section cut off the workers inside 30 miles of a dead-end tunnel.

Tearful relatives watched as rescuers dug by floodlight to sink a ventilation shaft into an intact portion of the mine.

The quarry is in eastern France near the Swiss border. Earlier, a firemen reported he heard muffled shouts that seemed to come from the quarry. Officials expressed belief the workmen were far enough away from the cave-in to have escaped injury.

Two drills were put into position to bore toward the area where the fireman said he heard the sounds. The quarry was believed to be 20 to 30 yards deep there. Bulldozers and mechanical shovels tried to remove debris from the entrance.

Other special large-bore drills were ordered. Rescuers said it may take two days to reach the men.

A fine rain started to fall by mid-afternoon, making a greasy mud of the chalky soil.

Off-duty workmen said the cave-in area resembled the inside of a cathedral with a high vaulted ceiling and natural stone pillars two or three yards in diameter. They said the interior was large enough for the operation of tractors and large dump trucks.

Witnesses said air compressed when the collapse occurred blew large stones high into the air.

U.S. Shrugs Off Castro's Attack

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The State Department Monday dismissed Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's lengthy attack on the United States and the Organization of American States (OAS) as "nothing particularly new."

Press Officer Richard I. Phillips, asked to comment on Castro's speech Sunday night on the 11th anniversary of the start of his revolutionary movement, said the Cuban premier's address "as expected," was devoted in large part to criticizing the action of the OAS in tightening diplomatic and economic sanctions on his country.

Goldwater Plans Party Unity Drive

Meetings Will Be Held To Strengthen Republican Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican presidential nominee Barry Goldwater announced Monday night a bid for party unity to strengthen his campaign for the White House and the drives of all GOP candidates.

The Arizona senator announced this aim after meeting for 2 hours and 20 minutes with his running mate, Rep. William E. Miller of New York, Republican National Chairman Dean Burch and top campaign advisers.

The Republican nominee said he and Miller will meet with GOP congressional leaders, with all the party's members of both House and Senate, with Republican governors and with other GOP leaders including former president Dwight D. Eisenhower.

He said the series of meetings will be held "in the interests of the campaign, of all Republican candidates' campaigns and in the interest of unity in the party."

Goldwater and Miller met newsmen after the long strategy talk and said the Republican running mates are inviting GOP members of the House and Senate to Capitol Hill breakfast meetings on Aug. 6 and 7 to discuss the presidential campaign plans and "anything else on the minds" of the congressmen.

Goldwater said plans are being formulated for a so-called Republican summit meeting, but no time or place has been set.

"We would like to include all Republican governors," Goldwater said.

That would include Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who challenged Goldwater for the nomination.

Goldwater said Eisenhower, former vice president Richard M. Nixon and other party leaders will be invited but the full guest list has not yet been compiled.

The senator said he still hopes to formally kick off his campaign in Prescott, Ariz., about 100 miles from his Phoenix home, where he launched both his campaigns for the Senate.

Portugal Train Crash Kills 89

OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — A revised death toll of 89 was announced Monday night in Portugal's worst railway disaster, the derailment of a single car loaded beyond its capacity. Hospital officials reported nearly 100 others were injured.

The latest death figure was announced by the health ministry after a recheck of hospital and morgue figures that had put the total as high as 113.

The rear car came uncoupled, at a curve Sunday night, crashed from side to side against walls bordering the track, then barreled down an embankment with its human cargo of more than 250 terrified passengers and smashed into a stone abutment. Officials said the car's capacity was 68.

Conductor Orlando Pereira Mendonca, 52, speaking from a hospital bed with tears streaming down his face, said he believed the accident occurred because the car was overloaded. Other witnesses agreed.

Mississippi Demo Battle Expected

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI) — Prospects grew for an all-out fight at the state Democratic convention Tuesday over whether to place the party behind GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

The party's leaders, including state Chairman Bidwell Adams and Gov. Paul Johnson, were determined to prevent placing the party machinery behind the opponent, Michael A. Musmanno.

Income Disclosure Spurned By Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate rejected a proposed new financial disclosure rule Monday night in favor of establishing a commission to study how best to prevent conflicts of interest among all federal employees.

By a vote of 48-39, it adopted a motion of Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., to send the proposed new rule back to the Rules Committee with instructions that it report forthwith a measure to set up a 17-member commission on ethics in the federal government.

The new rule, requiring senators and top Senate employees to disclose annually their major outside financial interests, had been recommended by the committee in a report on its Bobby Baker investigation.

The commission measure will have to be approved by the House as well as the Senate and be signed by President Johnson to make it effective. The Senate alone could have amended its rules to require disclosure of outside interest by senators and employees.

Dirksen, the Senate Republican leader, protested strongly against singling out the Senate alone for action to safeguard against conflicts of interest or other improprieties.

"We've demeaned ourselves long enough and all over one fallen angel," he said in reference to Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 as secretary to Senate Democratic majority.

The proposed commission on ethics, armed with subpoena powers, would be composed of four senators, four House members, and nine persons appointed from private life by President Johnson.

It would be directed to make "a full and complete study and investigation" to determine the measures necessary to insure the observance of high ethical standards by federal officers and employees in all branches of the government.

The commission would have to make a final report within two years and its recommendations could include measures for the disclosure of private financial interests as well as other steps to prevent conflicts of interest.

Woman Apparent Victor In Pa. Demo Senate Race

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Miss Genevieve Blatt, first woman ever elected to statewide office in Pennsylvania, apparently has sewed up the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator—more than three months after the Pennsylvania primary. The action and as soon as the state Supreme Court, in a 3-2 decision Monday, ruled against the nomination, "I'll be preparing to begin an active, vigorous campaign."

Incumbent Hugh Scott is the Republican nominee, seeking a second term. Musmanno, 67, in the middle of a 21-year-old-term on the State Supreme Court, ran with the endorsement of just about every state Democratic leader except U.S. Sen. Joseph S. Clark, who stumped for Blatt.

Tour Of Riot Area 'Shock' To Governor

New York Leader Deplores Violence As Quiet Returns

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Monday the racial violence that has wracked this city, leaving 4 dead and 350 injured, is "clear evidence of extremism that cannot be justified."

After touring Rochester's riot area, the governor termed his reaction one of "shock and great sadness."

"As governor and as a citizen, I deplore this kind of violence. This is not the way to achieve progress in a democratic society."

The governor flew here without advance notice. After touring the riot area, the governor met with county and city officials, and leaders of the National Guard and state police.

Meanwhile, the city remained an armed camp although quiet returned after two nights of rioting by Negro mobs.

At his news conference, Rockefeller said: "The situation is in hand and the problem now is the preservation of law and order, getting back to normalcy."

Troops Will Remain

He said the Guard and a detail of more than 400 state troopers would be kept on duty "as long as necessary to preserve law and order."

He said he felt the Rochester riots had no connection with the violence in New York City and saw no indication that outside agitators were here.

About the time Rockefeller arrived, representatives of the NAACP left a meeting with Mayor Frank T. Lamb and City Manager Porter W. Homer indicating disappointment over failure to reach an agreement on settling racial problems.

Thomas Allen, NAACP field secretary for New York and New England, said the group failed to obtain any specific commitment on long-range plans on problems of joblessness, recreation facilities, housing, and education.

Although the trouble areas were quiet, the city remained an armed camp. Police patrolled the streets in force, and New York State National Guard troops stood by at local armories, in case they were needed.

Four Persons Killed

The uprising by more than 4,000 Negroes and some whites left four dead, approximately 350 persons injured, more than 800 arrested and property damage and loss estimated in the millions.

It also resulted in: Reinforcement of the city's 550-man police force with 400 state troopers and 100 or more deputy sheriffs and out-of-town police.

Mobilization of 1,500 Guardsmen, held on a standby basis at two city armories.

Declaration of a state of emergency and a dusk-to-dawn curfew which was modified Monday to lessen the hardship imposed on residents, industries and business.

Closing of all liquor and gun stores and bars.

The City Council, meeting in special session Monday afternoon, directed City Manager Porter W. Homer to "conduct a thorough inquiry into the origin of the disorder."

Homer announced he had modified the 8 p.m. to 7 a.m. curfew. The new hours, effective Monday night, are 8:30 p.m. to 6 a.m.

N.Y. Detective Says Violence Urged By Reds

NEW YORK (AP) — A Puerto Rican detective said Monday he attended a secret Harlem meeting at the height of racial riots last week and heard calls for the slaying of police and judges.

Detective John Rivera told a state supreme court hearing on an injunction against Harlem demonstrations that the violence was urged by William Epton, a self-described Communist, who told the meeting, "The state must be smashed" and warned, "We're going to have to kill cops and judges."

The quotes were tape recorded by Rivera as he infiltrated the meeting to gain information for police to nip violence before it began.

Portions of the tape were played back at the hearing.

Meanwhile, the police department began increasing its Negro force in Harlem in compliance with a promise made last week by Mayor Robert F. Wagner in an effort to stem the racial rioting.

Five Negro sergeants replaced five white members of the same rank in Harlem assignments. Similar moves were under consideration for the predominantly Negro Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn.

Rioting and looting plagued both areas last week, causing one death, hundreds of injuries and arrests and more than $1 million in property damage.

As the two Negro communities returned to normal Monday, the state supreme court continued a ban against Harlem demonstrations by two militant Negro groups and their leaders.

Three ban was issued against Jesse Gray, head of the Community Council for Housing, and Epton and his Harlem Defense Council.

Epton was arrested Saturday for attempting to conduct a march in Harlem in defiance of a police department ban.

Jackie Kennedy To Observe Her 35th Birthday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy will observe her 35th birthday Tuesday by attending a meeting of the John F. Kennedy Library board of trustees in New York.

Her secretary, Nancy Tuckerman, said the late President's widow spent Monday packing her belongings at her summer home in the Kennedy compound at Hyannisport, Mass., in preparation for her move to Newport, R.I., where she will spend the month of August.

Her children, Caroline, 6, and John Jr., 3, were the advance guard for their mother, flying Monday to Hammersmith Farm, the Newport estate of Mrs. Kennedy's stepfather and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh D. Auchincloss.

Mrs. Kennedy will fly to New York Tuesday for the library meeting and will go on to Newport on Wednesday.

Peisner's Sentence In S&L Case Upheld

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The Court of Appeals upheld Monday a nine-year prison sentence given Arthur A. Peisner, who was convicted in Montgomery County Circuit Court of conspiracy to defraud depositors of the Mutual Security Savings and Loan Association.

Peisner was associated with two other persons in the formation of a number of corporations, including mutual security, in 1960 and 1961.

Testimony showed that the three agreed to keep no books and that about $3 million from the various companies is still unaccounted for.

Maryland News In Brief

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal District Judge Joseph C. McGarraghy denied Monday a request by Maryland Casualty Co. of Baltimore for a preliminary injunction against a stock exchange proposed by American General Insurance Co. of Houston, Tex.

Maryland Casualty had asked for the injunction to stop American General from making direct offers to Maryland stockholders for an exchange of stock.

McGarraghy ruled American General should be permitted to proceed with its offer. He said this permission would be subject to an order of the court under which the present status of Maryland management, policies, personnel and assets will be maintained.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spokesmen for the coal industry endorsed one coal mining bill and opposed another Monday.

In testimony before a Senate Interior subcommittee, witnesses supported a bill to increase the size of coal leases on federal lands.

Opposition was voiced to a bill calling for a study of the effects of strip mining.

L. E. Lawyer of Terre Haute, Ind., speaking for the Mid-West Coal Producers Institute, said in a statement to the subcommittee that several states have laws governing the strip mining industry and requiring the reclamation of disturbed lands.

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — Charles Sherman found the body of his 28-year-old son, William, on the beach of the Choptank River Monday. Dr. John Mace, Dorchester County medical examiner, said the son drowned after suffering an attack while walking on the shore.

FT. MEADE, Md. (AP) — Brig. Gen. Frederick O. Harrel was welcomed Monday as a new chief of staff of the 2nd Army. The 1933 graduate of the U. S. Military Academy had been commander of the U. S. Army brigade in Berlin.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Maryland Department of Employment Security announced Monday it will offer job training to 1,000 in Baltimore next fall.

The Department of Labor will make $2 million available to help applicants acquire the skills necessary for specific jobs.

BETHESDA, Md. (AP) — Two of the candidates he defeated in the May Democratic primary have agreed to help Royce Hanson in his bid for election to Congress from the 6th District.

R. Samuel Dillon Jr. of Hancock will be co-chairman of Hanson's campaign committee and John P. Moore of Silver Spring will be a vice chairman.

BALTIMORE (AP) — The Public Service Commission will hear Wednesday a proposal by the city of Westminster to buy a water works.

The city intends to take over the Maryland Water Works Co. which was valued at $960,000 the first of this year.

Monkton, Md., Man Indicted For Rape

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — George G. Turnbaugh, 27-year-old resident of Monkton, Md., was indicted Monday on a charge of raping a 15-year-old girl July 4. Turnbaugh, who is married, was accused by the Baltimore County grand jury of raping the girl in a wooded area near Parkton, a northern suburb of Baltimore.

State's Attorney Frank W. Newell, III said Turnbaugh's bail would be $15,000. He had been held without bail since a July 8 hearing in Police Court before Magistrate William L. Jacob.

British Terms For Laos Talks Given To Soviet

MOSCOW (UPI) — British Foreign Secretary R. A. Butler said Monday night he would not agree to a Soviet call for a 14-nation Geneva conference on Laos until pro-Communist forces there acceded to cease fire and withdrew from positions they have seized from the nationalists.

Butler laid down the British conditions for the conference shortly after arriving here for talks with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev on the growing crisis in Laos and Southeast Asia.

Britain and the Soviet are the co-chairmen of the 1962 and 1964 Geneva accords guaranteeing Laotian neutrality.

The Soviet Union Sunday said a new Geneva conference, attended by the 14 nations which signed the 1954 agreement carrying up what used to be French Indochina, should be held next month.

Both Britain and the United States oppose a 14-nation conference, favoring instead a meeting among Britain, the Soviet Union and the members of the International Control Commission for Laos—Canada, India and Poland.

Butler said he also wanted to talk with Khrushchev and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko about "security in general, disarmament, Anglo-Soviet relations and Soviet-British consular convention."

He said he also hopes to take up the question of a permanent United Nations peace-keeping force, a proposal put forth by the Soviets earlier this month.

"We feel this is a very important moment in Anglo-Soviet relations," Butler said.

Butler said he would try to persuade the Soviet Union to remain as co-chairman of the Laotian accords.

Lady Bird To Salute Nursing Profession

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson will salute the nursing profession at another in her series of woman doers luncheons on Wednesday.

She has invited Helen E. Browne, associate director for frontier nursing at Wendover in Lesley County, Ky., to tell of delivering babies in the rural areas of Southeastern Kentucky.

Miss Browne, a British-born nurse, came to the United States in 1938. Nurses from over the world come to her headquarters to observe nursing under hardship conditions.

The First Lady has invited sixteen guests to the luncheon in the family quarters including Dr. Pauline Stitt, head of the Maternal and Child Health Research Division of the Children's Bureau.

About 98 per cent of Sweden's population has access to electricity.

Makarios Rebuffs U. N.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, rejected Monday a United Nations demand for freedom of movement of U.N. forces in all parts of the island.

In a long reply to U.N. Secretary-General U. Thant's urgent request that U.N. observers be allowed in sensitive areas, Makarios said: "The stationing of United Nations observers in Cyprus ports would be an undesirable measure if undertaken."

The year 1952 was the first year with no reported cases of lynching in the United States.

Historical Society

Company publications are not new either. He had monthly publications of the Consolidation Coal Company involving information about its employees published in 1925 and 1928. Mr. Thomas seems particularly fond of an American Home and Farm Encyclopedia, published in 1887. This provided detailed information about building home and estimated that the cost of most of them was in the range between $1,000 and $1,500.

George K. Conway, a teacher at Allegany High School, showed Mr. Manakee a framed copy he owns of the New York Herald of April 15, 1865, which gives the first account of the assassination the night before of President Abraham Lincoln. This paper is just one of many items of value which were given to Mr. Conway by Miss Olive Simpson when she retired about five years ago.

Bid Is Accepted

The Mayor and Council yesterday accepted the $2,390.30 bid of the Holzshu-Blaul-Welch firm for insurance on the city's fleet of vehicles.

MRS. JOSEPH MILLER

Mrs. Ella Pearl Miller, 80, of 191/2 Grand Avenue, died yesterday at her residence.

Born in Keyser, she had lived here the past 75 years. She was a daughter of the late Thomas and Carrie (Mytinger) Alhey. Her husband, Joseph H. Miller, died in 1945.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Myrtle Ludwig, Rio; Mrs. Carrie Easton and Mrs. Beulah Diggs, city; eight grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

The body is at the Scarpelli Funeral Home where friends will be received from 2 until 4 p. m. and 7 until 9 p. m.

HENRY A. MILLER

Henry Alexander Miller, 80, of Ridgeley RD 1, died yesterday at Potomac Valley Hospital, Keyser.

Mr. Miller operated a saw mill at Horse Shoe Ridge. Born in Deer Park he was a son of the late David and Lisa (Hetrick) Miller.

Surviving are three brothers, John Miller, Deer Park; Jacob Miller, Oakland, and Elmer Miller, Daisytown, Pa.; three sisters, Mrs. Bertha Compton, Mrs. Margaret Judge, Akron, and Mrs. Lovina Mason, Cleveland, and one grandchild, Mrs. Paul Burch, Toronto, Ohio, and three great grandchildren.

The body is at the Minnich Funeral Home, Oakland, where friends will be received from 7 until 9 p. m. today.

A service will be conducted tomorrow at 2 p. m. at Paradise EUB Church by Rev. Oscar W. Hull. Interment will be in the church cemetery.

Sharks hunt by their sense of smell.

City Surplus

(Continued from Page 16) should include $35,000 as matching funds to be used if federal funds are made available for improvements at the airport.

It was also recommended that the Charter Amendment budget include $6,500 for revising and updating the city code.

Street Commissioner Lucile Roeder questioned the item, saying the city should appoint a charter commission which would study the present code and make recommendations.

The issue was not settled but all agreed the item should remain in the budget.

Detailed scrutiny of a number of budgets followed, and plans were made to meet again next week, when major budgets will come up for discussion.

The question of a wage increase came up during the session. A decision will be made during coming meetings but Mr. Rodecap commented informally that a 10 per cent increase is not possible.

Deadline Set Under present law, the budget must be approved and tax levy set by August 25. This will be the last year that the date will apply. Under a new state law, municipalities must have completed budgets by July 1 and this is applicable in 1965.

Mr. Rodecap said present budget preparations are about two weeks ahead of schedule. In a report to council yesterday on a request that cost estimates for a proposed traffic survey be obtained from the Maryland Municipal League, Mr. Rodecap said the league had been contacted.

He had been informed that no other municipality had had a survey similar to that which Cumberland desired so a cost estimate was not available. It was suggested, Mr. Rodecap said, that the city contact a company which makes the surveys, have a representative come here, learn what was wanted and make an estimate.

This could not be done in time to have an estimate for consideration in the new budget.

Natural GAS provides 99% of the cooking...90% of the water heating...90% of the heating...80% of the air conditioning... at the New York World's Fair

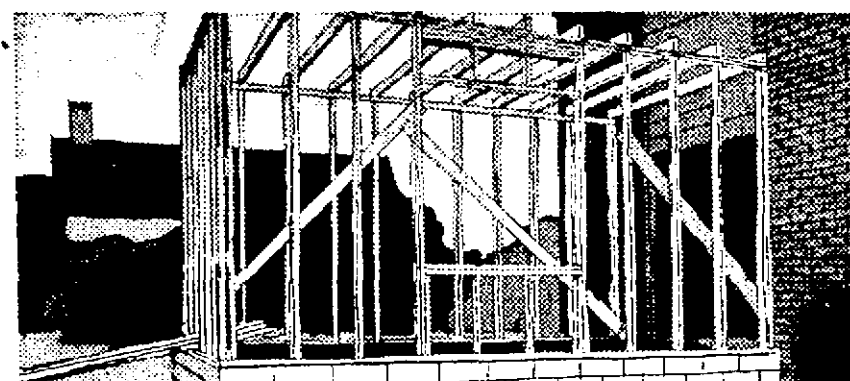

GAS FIRST AT THE FAIR
FIRST EVERYWHERE

Special Heating Problem?

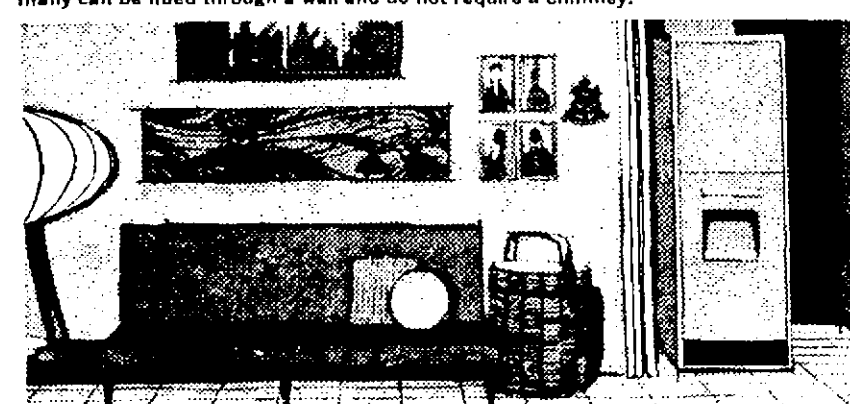

GAS SOLVES IT BEST

Heating a rambling, older home? Circulating fresh-air gas heat will keep every room, every corner comfortably warm. And because gas is so thrifty, you can afford to heat the whole house, even the basement.

Adding a room or enclosing a porch? A gas space heater can be installed quickly and easily. Choose a free-standing console design or one that can be recessed. Some take up less than one cubic foot of room space. All styles have built-in or wall thermostats... many can be fired through a wall and do not require a chimney.

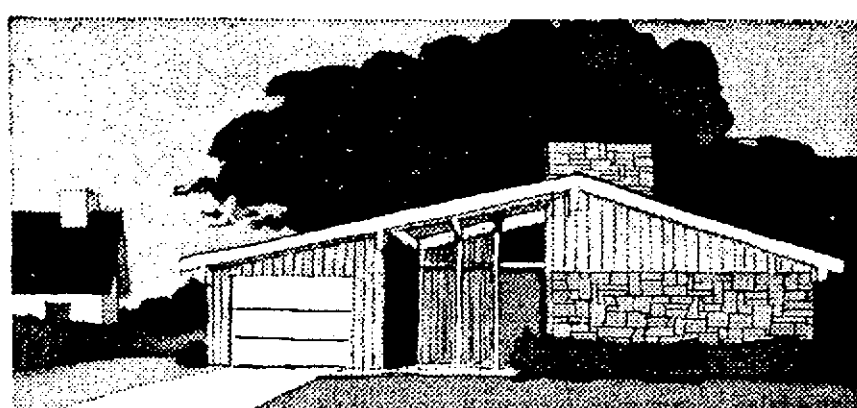

Need more basement space? New gas furnaces are so small and compact, you will have plenty of space for that basement game room you've been wanting. Pipes and ducts can be hidden out of view.

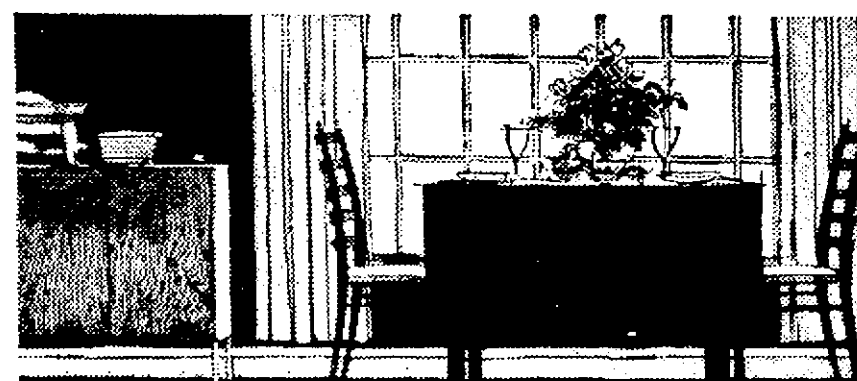

Whatever system you choose, you can count on big savings with economical gas. Remember—gas heating costs only a fraction as much as wire resistance heating. For complete information on specialized gas installations, call your local gas company office or your favorite heating dealer.

Columbia Gas of Md.

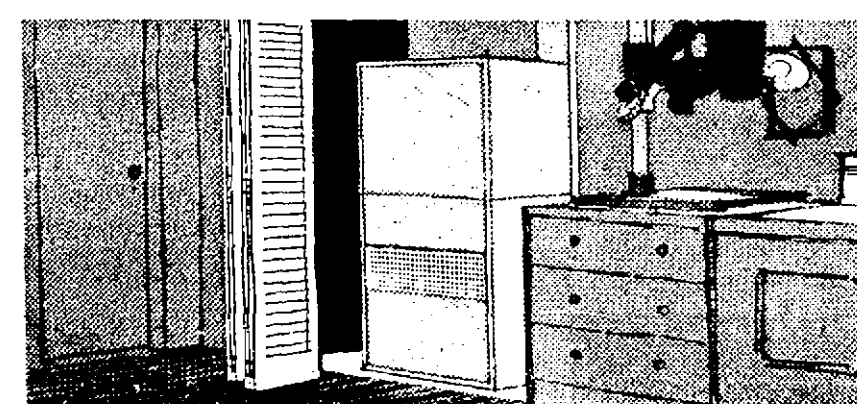

Beyond our gas mains, use dependable L.P. gas

Is yours a compact, modern home? Modern gas furnaces are the perfect choice for homes where space is limited. So compact they can fit into a corner, a closet, an attic. Ducts can be located below floors or above ceilings.

Like even, hot water heat? Modern gas fired boilers are compact, use little fuel. Heating units are designed to act as baseboards so they don't interfere with room decoration... coils can also be imbedded in plaster ceilings or cement floors.

Planning for whole-house air conditioning? It's easy, when you have a forced-air gas heating system. In many cases, one add-on unit provides your whole house with air-conditioned comfort.

Appalachian Amendment Discussed

Discussing the milk situation in the Washington area, William Clem, Randallstown, field man of the Maryland State Farm Bureau, who served as master of ceremonies at the annual Allegany County Farm Bureau picnic and Farm Queen contest, sponsored by the Women's Committee, said that Senators Beall and Brewster had added an amendment to the Appalachian bill, that dairymen be reimbursed for the milk they had to destroy because of the spray used on the alfalfa in the spring.

Vernon Loar, president of the Allegany County Farm Bureau, read a telegram from Senator Beall, stating that the bill and amendment were passed Friday night. Mrs. Arch Davis, chairman of the Women's Committee, extended greetings.

Besides the $10 award and queen's crown, Vicki Twigg, the 1964 Allegany County Farm Queen was presented a $5,000 travel accident policy by Walter Maxey. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Twigg, Oldtown, Vicki and her family will leave tomorrow to visit the New York World Fair. August 31, Vicki, her mother and Mrs. Davis, as chaperone, will be guests of the Timonium Fair for a dinner at the Jockey Club, preceding the state Farm Queen contest, in which Vicki will compete.

Barbara Powers, first runner-up in the county contest, received $7.50; Betty Lou Twigg, second runnerup, $5 and each of the other contestants, $2.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. William Clem, Williamsport; William Bennett, soil conservation supervisor, and Dean Hillegas, Myersdale, from WFRB. Miss Mabel Twigg was accompanist. Mrs. Harry Barton led group singing while the judges were deciding the winner.

Troop Has Campfire, Honor Court

A Court of Honor and American Heritage campfire program was held by Boy Scout Troop 9, in the parking area at Cresaptown Methodist Church. Gary Hansford and Dennis Knepper were advanced to second class Paul Glessner, advancement man, took charge of the Court of Honor.

Service stars and cards were presented to scouts and committeemen by Gary Hansford, assistant scout master. The tenderfoot investiture service was conducted by Larry Davis for Bruce Shook and Steven Shook.

The 20 year charter was presented to Rev. William Balderson and Gary Wolford by Lewis Millholland, neighborhood commissioner.

The program opened with songs and reading, "What Is American Heritage?" by Grady Wolford, chairman. Three Indians, Fred Gover, Bruce Shuck and Kenneth Kastner, gave the scout laws, oath and flag salute.

The fire was started with flint and steel by Fred Gover, while Randy Sturtz read the American creed. Larry Davis, scout master reported on activities by the troop at a recent summer camp and during the past year. Dennis Knepper read the troop pledge to American heritage, and had it signed by the troop. Larry Davis gave a routine report. Rev. Balderson led the group in heritage songs and offered the benediction.

Parents were guests.

Ann Landers ...

Answers Your Problems

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I did what I thought was right and now I am in Dutch with the people I sit for. Please publish my letter and your advice.

I'm a teen-ager who sits for a nice family. They have four children. Maybe I am a fraidy cat but I never open the door for anyone. After all, I don't know all the friends and relatives of the people I work for. Chances are about one in a million that I might let in an intruder but I don't want to take that one chance.

The other night a man rang the doorbell. He had a suitcase in his hand, and said he was a brother-in-law. I refused to let him in the house. He was awfully mad at me because he had to sit in his car for two hours.

When the Mr. and Mrs. finally came home they were furious with me. They said I should have known from looking at the man that he was "perfectly O.K." What do you think about this? — CHICKEN

DEAR CHICKEN: I think you're the kind of girl I'd like to have as a sister for my granddaughter.

The first rule a sister should learn is never to open the door for anyone. It's not possible to tell by looking whether a person is "perfectly O.K." The folks for whom you work should have praised you for your good judgment — and given you a bonus in the bargain.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I was interested in the letter from the woman who wrote about the deaf-mute who went around selling packets of needles for 50c.

I work in the department of Health, Education and Welfare in the area of vocational rehabilitation and I can tell you there is no justification for any deaf person operating as a beggar, peddling his disability. Generally speaking, deaf people have normal strength, mobility and intelligence.

Our efforts to help the deaf are often undone by the operation of gangs of deaf beggars who swoop down on a community with their false tales of inability to obtain jobs, thereby creating a negative image of deaf people.

Mrs. Millholland Honored At Party

Col. and Mrs. Randolph Millholland entertained with a family dinner in honor of the former's mother, Mrs. Randolph Millholland, Sr., North Allegany Street, in celebration of her birthday.

It was held Saturday evening at their home, Buckingham Road, in the form of a lawn party. A buffet dinner was served.

The evening was spent informally.

Personals

Ralph C. Simmons, 220 Harrison Street, is a surgical patient in Sacred Heart Hospital.

Otis Wisman, 502 Decatur Street, who was a medical patient in Memorial Hospital, has returned home.

Mrs. J. W. Cochran and sons, Gladstone, Mo., are visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley C. Harris, 508 Eastern Avenue.

Andrew Heller, 115 Tilghman Street, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Report Given

A report of 133 contacts made during the month, was given by Mrs. Mary Robinson at the supper meeting of the Swanson Memorial Bible Class of Second Baptist Church. The Scripture was read by Mrs. Laura Valentine, who conducted the meeting in the social room. Mrs. Elhel Hudson offered prayer.

Others present were Mrs. Edna Leese, Mrs. Eva Thompson, Mrs. Elmore Tipton, Mrs. Mildred England, Mrs. Vera Davis, Mrs. Edith Yutzy, Mrs. Pearl Gaither, Mrs. Mary Brakeall, Mrs. Milly Tritt and John Tritt.

August To Be Cresaptown Area Recreation Month

Discussing the Cresaptown Recreation Area, the Cresaptown Community Council designated the month of August as "membership month" at the meeting Friday evening at the school. Oberlin Chaney presided. It will be membership to the Area Recreation Club of the Cresaptown Community Council. A house to house canvass will be held August 10 through 15. The committee in charge consists of Mrs. Robert Cessna, chairman, Mrs. Robert Rogers, Mrs. Hubert Martz, Mrs. Ralph Phillips and Mrs. Lester McGill.

The council decided to discontinue the teenage dances until cooler weather, and cancel the usual festival this year in order to concentrate on the recreational area.

House numbering was discussed and it was reported it will have to wait until notified by the County Planning Commission that the county has numbered the sections. The local council will take over from there. The next council meeting will be September 18.

Dessert, Card Party Planned

A dessert card party is being sponsored by the ways and means committee of Mountain Chapter 15, Order of the Eastern Star. It will be held August 12 at the Merrill Phillips residence, Mount Pleasant Street, Frostburg, beginning at 1 p. m.

Tickets may be obtained from any committee member. They are Mrs. Ruby Boettner, past matron, chairman; assisted by Mrs. Grace Thomas, Mrs. Ruth Cook, Mrs. Mary Lou Mont, Mrs. Lena Johnson, Mrs. Ruth Connor, Mrs. Martha McNeil, Mrs. Marie McFarland, Mrs. May Stair, and Mrs. Helen Blocker or Mrs. Arch Davis.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Tact And Truth 'Sell' Best

Do you honestly like people? Not just "nice" people but all kinds of people—pleasant or cross, rich or poor, stingy or extravagant, happy or depressed? Are you able to show your liking by your interest in them, by your sincere attempts to understand them?

In other words, can you "communicate" with feeling?

If the answer is Yes, you've got the ideal personality for a salesperson, the top requisite that counts higher than previous experience behind a counter. The stores are always looking for someone like you. The woman who likes people and enjoys selling is a rare gem—and she might even have the capacity to inspire her less-enthusiastic colleagues who tend to translate their jobs into watching the registers and watching the clock.

It just about goes without saying that, if you like people, it comes natural to play it straight with them. You don't use your powers of persuasion to sell them items they don't really want or that you know will satisfy your customers, rather than subscribe to the theory that "anything goes" to save a sale.

You don't promise services or a delivery date that the store can't possibly fulfill. You try to anticipate complaints, giving customers the benefit of the doubt, receiving them gracefully in the interests of good will. It never pays to provoke a customer to anger by revealing your own personal reaction of hostility or suspicion. It doesn't take long to sort out the chronic "crank" customers from the majority. And the majority can usually match you in courtesy and honesty. Even the cranks can be handled when your approach is always temperate, always friendly.

Happily, a super salespersonality knows no age limit.

Christian Fellowship Installs

The officers of the Christian Women's Fellowship of First Christian Church, were installed at the meeting. Mrs. William F. Frank conducted the candlelight installation service, using "Christ Our Light" as the theme. Gary O'Neal sang "I Bind My Heart" and "Light of the World" accompanied by Mrs. Paul Gilford at the organ.

The officers and chairmen installed were president, Mrs. Harold L. Frankhouser; first vice-president, Mrs. Arthur Howard; second vice-president, Mrs. Paul Gilford; secretary, Mrs. Richard Koegel; treasurer, Mrs. J. L. McClellan; worship chairmen, Mrs. Arthur Hannas and Mrs. Donald Walker; service, Mrs. W. Russell Zembower; study, Miss Margaret Doak and membership, Mrs. Paul Mathis.

Preceding the installation a brief business meeting was held and the study for the last six months, "Threads of Gold" a study of India, was summarized.

Plans for the annual Vesper service were discussed. The vesper will be held on August 13 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Howard, Baltimore Pike and will begin at 6:15 p. m. with a family picnic. The worship and study committees are in charge of the service.

Mrs. J. K. Dye was hostess for the social hour and served refreshments.

Club Plans August Party

Another covered dish dinner was planned by members of the Past Presidents Club of Henry Hart Auxiliary, at the dinner meeting held Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Violet Karns, Frederick Street. It will be August 27 at the home of Mrs. Helen Stevens, Keyser.

During the informal meeting, following the dinner, it was announced that Mrs. Alice Chadwick, past national president of the VFW Auxiliary, is a patient in Newton Baker Hospital, Martinsburg. Prizes were won by Mrs. Karns and Mrs. Mary Henry, a guest. A games party concluded the evening.

Other members attending were Mrs. Rosalie Everstine, Mrs. Grace Cross, Mrs. Andrea Golliday, Mrs. Goldie Martin, Mrs. Clara Manthey, Mrs. Elizabeth Nave, Mrs. Stevens, Mrs. Alice Miller and Mrs. Zellene Norris. Guests were Mrs. Virginia Parker, Mrs. Mildred Reiber, Lloyd Setvens, George Miller, Buford Cross and James Shieves.

Club Week Meeting Scheduled

A 4-H Club Week orientation meeting is scheduled for Friday evening. It will be held at the extension office at 7:30, for all 4-H'ers and leaders who will be attending Club Week, August 3-7.

Besides the changes this year, interest sessions and county group meetings will be discussed. Plans also will be formulated for transportation, county pictures, dormitory and tribe assignments, in addition to miscellaneous items and questions.

Members are reminded to be ready to pay their Club Week fee.

Social Chart

Davis Greise, president of American Bakers and Confection Workers Local 246, will hold a picnic at Mink's, Christie Road, today from 1 until 6.

Take a moment from your busy schedule to spot dangers in your surroundings; then take time to do something about the dangerous conditions before the accident happens.

Public Hearings Are Announced At Frostburg

Cover Paving And Sub-Division

FROSTBURG — Two public hearings will be held for residents of Frostburg this week.

The first hearing to be held today at 7:30 p.m. in the council chambers is for the purpose of discussing a proposed major street plan and proposed subdivision regulations for the City of Frostburg to be submitted to the Mayor and City Council for adoption.

The proposed regulations cover the procedure necessary for the layout of a subdivision of land and to provide for the proper arrangement and construction of streets and utilities.

The regulations were prepared by the Frostburg Planning and Zoning Commission with the aid of Marcou and Stein Associates. The second hearing to be held will be for property owners on the following streets to discuss the paving of the streets: Charles Street from Center to Bowery Street; Locust Street from College Avenue to Frost Avenue; Chestnut Street from College Avenue to Linden Street; Mt. Vernon Street from Main to Washington Street, and Aspinall Street from City parking lot to Center Street.

According to Gerald E. Reeves, street commissioner, if the above streets are approved for paving it will complete the paving of all city streets except one or two a block long.

Bigger Pensions

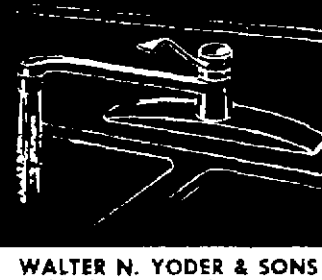

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., urged the Senate Monday to hike social security benefits to meet the 7 per cent increase in the cost of living since the last congressional adjustment in old-age in monthly payments.

In a speech prepared for floor delivery, Byrd said "it is hard to realize that the average social security benefit to a retired worker in the country today is only $76 a month."

He urged an increase in benefit as an aid to raising economy.

W. Va. School Superintendent Invited To Confer With President Johnson

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — State School Supt. Rex M. Smith announced he has been asked to meet with President Johnson Thursday at the White House.

Smith said he did not know the purpose of the meeting or if any other educators would be present.

"I feel sure, however," he said, "that I won't be the only one there."

In his Monday news conference, Smith also gave his impressions of a month-long visit to schools in West Germany with four other state superintendents and an official of the U.S. Department of Education.

He warned that U.S. schools may be placing too much emphasis on competitive sports and marching, rather than on upgrading vocational and academic curricula.

"I don't think we can spend the money for the entertainment of adults," Smith said, adding, "Sports and music are fine but we are getting carried away."

Smith attributed his feelings to a visit to a German school which was completing a new physical education building.

"It was very well equipped and a fine building, but there were no seats for spectators," he said. "When I asked where the people were to sit, a man said, 'What people?'"

In outlining other impressions of the German educational system Smith said he was concerned over the highly specialized courses and lack of "a comprehensive program" in Germany.

He also said rural schools, similar to ones in West Virginia, "are too traditional and are not progressive."

He said the first four grades of German schools are similar to American institutions but after that the two are "like different worlds."

Smith said he feels teachers "in our state should be more respected and have a higher place in the community. In Germany, teachers and professors are on the same plane as doctors, dentists and other professional people."

Auto Workers Approve Pact End Strike

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Some 1,600 members of the United Auto Workers Monday gave overwhelming approval to a new 30-month contract and put an end to a 12-week strike at FMC Corp.'s ordnance plant in South Charleston.

Charleston police delayed the start of a three-hour membership meeting while they checked out an anonymous telephone call that a bomb had been planted in Municipal Auditorium, set to go off at 2:15 p.m. No bomb was found after authorities evacuated the building.

UAW regional director Ray Ross said the new contract, agreed to by the union and company last Friday night, included a 20-cent-an-hour pay raise over the 30-month period, a seniority clause, dues check-off provisions and a modified union shop.

Employees will get an immediate four-cents-an-hour pay raise, an additional eight cents next January and eight cents more in January, 1966, Ross said.

The modified union shop means that present employees will not be required to join the union but that new employees will.

Ross said the "burning question" of job classifications remained unsettled. Any question which remains unresolved after the next 60 days will be submitted to binding arbitration, he said.

"We hope both sides have gotten the spite out of their systems and will get down to normal labor-management relations," Ross said.

A union spokesman said approval of the contract came on standing vote after the meeting. He said that of the some 1,600 members present, about 90 per cent endorsed the pact.

The strike started May 3 after company and union negotiators failed to come up with the first contract after production workers at the big plant picked the UAW as their bargaining agent.

The walkout was marred by some violence earlier this month after union members allegedly violated an injunction limiting the number of pickets at the plant gate to three.

The incident resulted in the arrests of about 60 persons, many of whom are still waiting court action.

Gov. W. W. Barron entered the negotiations about two weeks ago. He brought the two principals and federal mediators together in a series of meetings at the Statehouse which ended in the signing of the proposed contract last Friday night.

Tree Farms Certified In Maryland

HANCOCK—The Cardinal Club of Cumberland, located 16 miles east of Cumberland and four Garrett County tree growers are among 12 private woodland owners accepted as new members of the American Tree Farm System.

The latest action of the committee increased the total number of certified farms in Maryland to 59, encompassing over 29,000 acres of wisely managed forest land.

The Cardinal Club won special recognition from the Maryland Tree Farm Committee for the farming of 124 acres. The club has a membership of 17 and income is used for maintenance of property.

The largest of the accepted farms is owned by Mrs. Ethel Helbig, a school teacher in Oakland. She has a 600-acre tract a few miles east of Deer Park, Md. Helbig's late husband started the family in the tree business in 1951, planting 15 acres in trees.

Mrs. Helbig says she plans to use her earnings from the property to put her niece through college.

Another Garrett County tract granted approval was that of dairy farmer Lenwood Bittinger. He has 100 acres near Mt. Lake Park.

Homer Shaffer, an IBM operator from Washington, D. C., had 87 acres certified near Table Rock and Green Gold Farms, Inc., Oakland had 237 acres approved.

Area Peach, Apple Crops Need Rain

Drought Hits W. Va. Counties

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — The chances of good peach and apple harvests look dim for major fruit producing areas of east-central West Virginia and the Eastern Panhandle because of extreme dry conditions.

"The next two weeks will tell the story," according to chief statistician A. R. Miller of the State Department of Agriculture. "If there is no rain in those areas, we're in for a bad crop," he said.

Hampshire, Morgan, Jefferson and Berkeley Counties make up the state's so-called fruit belt, and drought conditions there extend in some cases to late May and even earlier.

At the latest report, Mathias and Moorefield, Hampshire County, show the least amount of rainfall since April 1. Mathias has recorded 7.02 inches and Moorefield 7.89, both way below anticipated or average rainfall.

"Crops in Mathias and Moorefield, along with areas near Romney and Martinsburg are in the critical stage," Miller said. "If the dry weather continues for another few weeks, the drought could turn out much more severe than in 1963," he said.

During the summer of 1963, West Virginia farmers suffered the worst drought in over 100 years, ending with severe forest fires through late autumn.

As it stands now, the first hay crop has been cut, only slightly below average, and the second cutting is under way in many sections. According to Miller, the current hay crop "probably will be only half the normal cutting."

Apples will have a chance, as harvesting does not begin for about five weeks. Rain could mean the difference. But, for peaches, the season starts about Aug. 10 and continues through the first week of September.

"The peaches could turn out the size of golf balls if there is not rain soon," Miller predicted.

It had been estimated earlier this summer that West Virginia farmers would produce 6 million bushels of apples and 700,000 bushels of peaches. Those figures look unlikely, Miller said.

Bloodmobile Visits Keyser, September 1

KEYSER—The next visit of the American Red Cross bloodmobile unit to Grace Methodist Church will take place September 1 from noon to 6 p.m. The quota is 110 pints.

Mineral County Chapter, AMR, was presented a production award at the fourth quarterly Regional Blood Center meeting at the Fort Stanwix Hotel in Johnstown.

Contributions of 286 pints were made at the four regular bloodmobile visits. Ninety-two pints were collected during the "Slump Special" at Potomac State College in January, and 40 donors were sent to Potomac Valley Hospital, making a total of 418 pints.

With 32 participating chapters, Mineral County stands in sixteenth place with 101.46 per cent of the quota met.

Mrs. Jean Steward, executive secretary, accepted the award and will place it on display in the Farmers and Merchants Bank and later at Potomac Valley Hospital.

Two W. Va. Girls Attend Girls Nation

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two West Virginia girls are among 98 young women who converged on Washington Sunday for the 17th annual Girls Nation, sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Representing the Mountain State at the conclave are Sue Ellen Doly, South Charleston, and Sally Ann Vest, Fairmont.

Activities at Girls Nation, which will run through Saturday, include a national political campaign, the election and appointment of officers, and the formation of a complete national government.

Visits from government officials, including President Johnson, will highlight the week.

West Virginia Anticipating Tax Surplus

Receipts Triple
In Past Decade

By THOMAS P. FAZIO
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — West Virginia's general revenue fund receipts have tripled in the past decade and Statehouse sources predict that this year's receipts will be several million dollars over the anticipated $155 million.

Since 1944, revenues have risen from $43 to $156 million with the 1963-64 budget despite existing poverty pockets in the Mountain State.

Greatest share of the collections have come from gross sales and consumers taxes, cigarettes, insurance tax and certificates and racing fees.

Other taxes pouring into the state's coffers to help keep West Virginia's expanding government operating include the personal income tax, liquor profits, charter taxes and beer taxes and licenses. Also there are inheritance, charter, property, property transfer and use taxes and institution fees also with institution, department and board collections.

Economic Impact

The economic impact since fiscal 1944-45 was reflected mainly in gross sales and consumer taxes through last year.

In 1944-45, West Virginia collected $21 million in gross sales taxes and $13 million in consumer taxes, jumping to $58 million in gross sales collections and $46 million in consumer revenue in 1963-64.

Officials feel that 1964-65 estimates will reach way beyond the expected $57 million and $46 million for the respective categories.

Insurance tax and certificates jumped from $1.22 million to $6.9 million during the 10 year span and notable gains were reflected in racing commission fees, from $160,180 in 1944-45 to $5.4 million the past fiscal year.

Change Is Noted

It's interesting to note that while gross sales and consumer taxes composed nearly 80 per cent of the entire general revenue fund receipts in 1944-45, they amounted to a total of 66 per cent of total collections during 1963-64.

This was apparently the result of the personal income tax, which accounted for over 11 per cent of the overall collections and the commanding percentage of racing fees collected along with gains in other categories, including insurance taxes.

The figures revealed a point that would certainly be a feather in the hat of the present Barren Administration, when it took office in January, 1960.

Total revenue fund collections rose from $117 million in fiscal 1960-61 to $149 million in 1961-62 and the past fiscal year reached $156 million.

On the other hand, when former Gov. Cecil Underwood took office the 1957-58 general fund collections totaled $104.6 million and upped to $117 at the close of his administration, also showing a sizeable increase.

Anticipated Income

During 1964-65, general revenue collections are expected to include an estimated $57 million in gross sales taxes, $46 million in consumer sales taxes, $18 million in personal property taxes, $2 million cigarette tax, $3 million inheritance, $2 million beer taxes and licenses, $6.9 million insurance taxes, $5.4 million racing fees, $7 million liquor profits, $1.6 million tuition and education fees, among others.

Education, Health Up

Of the estimated 1964-65 general fund revenue, over $94 million will go for education, $31 million for health and welfare, nearly $9 million for general government, $6 million to the State Road Commission, $3 million for charities and correction, $1 million for Social Security and over $10 million for other services.

Finance and Administration Commissioner Truman E. Gore said it was "noteworthy that these economic improvements have been able to keep pace."

He added, "Should solutions be found to eliminate these so-called depressed areas — and I believe they will be found — our potential economy could make West Virginia a leader in its area."

Episcopal Bible School Is Opened

FROSTBURG — The daily vacation Bible School of St. John's Episcopal Church opened Monday and will continue through August 7.

Children from three to 12 years of age may attend the daily sessions from 9:30 a.m. to noon, Monday through Fridays, under the direction of Rev. Anthony Hollis.

The curriculum, centered around "The Church, the Ship of Salvation" will feature singing, recreation and refreshments.

The faculty includes Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mrs. Amer Suter, Mrs. J. Paul Frase, Mrs. Mervin Edwards, Mrs. Ernest Ogden and Mrs. Robert Rephan. Assisting will be Mrs. John L. Dunkle Jr., Mrs. Benjamin Hughes Jr., Carolyn Brodbeck, Linda Edwards, Suzanne Filer, Nancy Hughes, Lynn Hughes, Carol Morgan, Andrea Neilson and Cynthia Treacy.

Lonaconing Bible School Concluded

"Johnnie And The Five Dreadful Giants" was the exciting theme of the Vacation Bible School at Saint Peter's Episcopal Church in Lonaconing, which had its concluding exercises in the Parish House auditorium. Thirty-two children and ten teachers participated in the daily program of teaching, work sheets and discussion on the theme, Indoor and Outdoor Athletics, Snack, and Handicrafts. The theme itself was fully prepared by the teachers and the vicar of the church, Rev. David Johnston. Teachers were Donna Miles, Carol Snelson, Kathy Long, Dottie Moses, Diana Snelson, Betty Ann Long, Marcene Cook, Hazel M. Green, Valerie Johnston, Earlene Barbour. Children and teachers included: First row, left to right, Mrs. Donna Miles, Diana Miles,

Model Class Teacher Named

Edwin F. Baldwin, Keyser, a French teacher at Allegany High School, is participating in a French language course at Stillman College, Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The course is being conducted in cooperation with the U. S. Office of Education under the sponsorship of the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

The course was planned to provide an opportunity for 38 French teachers from over the country to live in a French atmosphere where the French language is constantly the medium of expression throughout the daily round of classes, at meals, in the dormitory, and at all formal and informal functions. The group is being housed in a dormitory where five native speakers of French, who contribute much to the creating of a French atmosphere, are also living.

The program of the institute includes classes in methodology, linguistics, civilization and culture, phonetics, conversation, pattern practice and language analysis. A faculty composed of professors from colleges and universities in the U. S., as well as from abroad, has been brought to Stillman to conduct the institute.

The figures revealed a point that would certainly be a feather in the hat of the present Barren Administration, when it took office in January, 1960.

Florence Liller Entertains Circle

W.Va. Democrats Drafting Platform

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) — Attorneys Charles R. McElwee and Chauncey H. Browning Jr. have been appointed co-chairmen of the Democratic state platform drafting committee, state chairman James M. Sprouse announced Saturday.

Sprouse said McElwee, a former assistant attorney general, has had extensive legislative drafting experience. Browning led the Democratic State Convention in Huntington Aug. 8. Sprouse said the committee is considering holding hearings around the state to enable groups and individuals to present their views.

Larcenies Are Reported

A number of larcenies and investigation include a North Centre Street business and Allegany over the weekend, one of the former including the theft of a sum of money and rings valued at $400 from a parked car at Constitution Park.

A Wiley Ford woman who was attending a swimming class for adults at the park pool reported the loss of the rings, her wedding and engagement bands. Also taken was a wallet containing a $10 bill and personal papers. Police said the rings and wallet had been placed in the glove compartment of the locked car for safekeeping.

The theft of a money bag containing $87 from the North George Street lot of the Coach Parking System also was investigated by police, with the case being solved after questioning of two young boys who have admitted the theft.

One of the more unusual thefts reported was of a basket of unwashed clothing from a downtown do-it-yourself laundry center. Reported by a Williams Road resident, police said a description of the couple who stole the clothing was obtained from other patrons of the business.

A Virginia Avenue businessman told police a book of trading stamps was stolen from his service station while he was servicing another vehicle. A description of the vehicle and driver has been circulated.

Queen City Days Planned

The Downtown Merchants Association has announced plans for the first annual "Queen City Days" to be held July 30-31 and August 1-3.

In a letter to the Mayor and Council yesterday, Arthur Friedland, chairman, requested a proclamation be issued. Council agreed to do so.

The special days are part of the association's continuing efforts to keep the downtown area the "most important retail area in the county," Mr. Friedland's letter said.

Council issued another proclamation, naming the week of August 3-9 as "Algonquin Players Week" and urging citizen support and participation in the local drama group's activities.

During the week, the Players will present the comedy, "The Girls in 509" in performances Tuesday and Wednesday, August 4-5, at All Ghan Shrine Country Club.

County Youths To Attend 4-H Week

Twenty-seven Allegany County 4-H'ers are preparing to join about 1,000 other 4-H Club members from across the state as they swarm onto the University of Maryland campus, College Park, for the annual 4-H Club Week.

Most of the local contingent will depart about 8:30 a. m. Monday, August 3, for the junket to College Park. They are scheduled to return Friday evening, August 7.

They will be accompanied by Mrs. Edgar Miller, leader, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Babich. Mr. Babich is county 4-H agent for the Cooperative Extension Service.

Mr. Babich said an orientation meeting for those making the trip will be held Friday at 7:30 p. m. at the Extension Office in Allegany County Court House.

Eleven of the 4-H group have been awarded job assignments for Club Week. Most of the 11 will be leaving Saturday, August 1, for College Park.

Chosen for job assignments were Susanne Weatherholt and James Heavner, of Union Grove 4-H; David R. Norris, and Joyce Simpson, of Baltimore Pike 4-H; Mary Elizabeth Baker, Flintstone-Polish Mountain 4-H; Beckie Bolyard, Andrea Bowden, Rheba Lynne James, Lonaconing Senior 4-H; Helen Morgan, and Kay Frances Morgan, Frostburg 4-H; and James Robison, Round-About 4-H.

Others from the county who will be attending and their clubs are Mary Lou Burgess, Flintstone-Polish Mountain 4-H; Sandor Crouch, Edward -A. Delbrook, Arthur Ford, Gene Paul and John Robison, all of Round-About 4-H; Mt. Savage; Marvel Major, Peggy Phillips, Caryl Struck and Carol Jean Sullivan, Lonaconing Senior 4-H; Travis Martin, Cresaptown 4-H; George E. Raines and Carl E. Robinette, Breakneck 4-H; Kitty Carney, Mt. Savage 4-H; and John C. Heavner and Joan Miltenberger, Union Grove 4-H. State 4-H Club Week attracts high schoolers and older each summer to learn about careers, world affairs, the arts, and citizenship. Away from home—many for the first time—they make friends, acquire skills, examine values and aspirations.

"Who Am I?" members of this year's group will ask as they attend one workshop geared to self understanding and building confidence. Another workshop, "After School—Then?" will help the youths discover their abilities and decide their futures.

More teens will visit the National Gallery of Art and see how artists paint a picture of humanity. Dating and courtship, manners and grooming will also be eyed carefully by the 4-H'ers—many of whom attend the state event on scholarships.

Discouraging The Profit Motive

Ivan Ivanovich is constantly being exhorted by his leaders, especially Nikita Khrushchev, to work harder in order to catch up with the Americans. At the same time, Soviet leaders denounce America for exploiting and sweating workers.

Anyway, a 19-year-old Muscovite wanted to catch up with the Americans. He craved American clothing, jazz records, chewing gum and cigarettes. He hung around hotels and bought these products from tourists, using some, selling others at a profit.

From a Western viewpoint, this last made him an enterprising citizen. By Communist standards, this made him guilty of being a parasite, of stubborn opposition to honest work, of enriching himself at the expense of the state, etc., etc.

His downfall came about because he yearned for true Arizona blue jeans, and continued to try to buy them despite several police warnings. He thought, commented a Moscow newspaper, that if he put on such jeans and moccasins, "all the girls on Gorki Street would be his."

He was able to pay as much as $11 for an American shirt and still sell it at a handsome profit—a sad commentary on Soviet workmanship. The youth's story in court didn't help him much. He bought American garments, he said, because "our clothes are very bad."

This is self-evident to everybody, including Soviet publications and officials, who keep criticizing the shoddiness of native garments. But it didn't save him from five years in Siberia.

With so many enterprising Russian citizens winding up in jail or Siberia, no wonder Khrushchev's timetable for catching up with America has to be postponed from year to year.

Resentments Help Goldwater

LOS ANGELES, Calif.: A visitor to California, listening to the backbiting and catervauling that goes on among the Democrats, gets the immediate impression that Barry Goldwater might run off with the bacon in this state next November simply because of dissonance among his opponents. What seems astounding to the outsider is the fact that Governor Pat Brown, who has been mentioned as a Vice Presidential possibility, is pictured as being at odds with virtually all the dominant personalities of his party. Jesse Unruh, the speaker of the California Assembly who is Democratic boss of the state is again Pat: so is Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles, the maverick Democrat who supported Nixon against Kennedy. Moreover, the contest between Alan Cranston and interloper Pierre Salinger for the Democratic senatorial nomination has supposedly left a heritage of bad blood.

Political experts for the local newspapers, however, caution the visitor against making too much of what, on the surface, looks like Democratic civil war. "You must remember," says one observer with a long experience in covering politics in both Los Angeles and Sacramento, "that the local Democrats are like a blob of mercury. You jostle it and it splits into thirty fragments. But it can flow together again in the twinkling of an eye."

The real opportunity of the Republicans, so one is told, comes from resentments that are comparatively new to California. This State has known its racial tensions in the past; it was once fired up against the Chinese and the Japanese, and there have been Mexican riots in Los Angeles. But civil rights, as they affect the Negro, have never been much of a California problem. Negroes have not been discriminated against in local employment; they hold many civil service jobs, and a Negro heads the Los Angeles Post Office. There had never been a "Negro vote" in California until the Goldwater-Rockefeller primary provoked the first approach to Negro coalescence.

After talking with native Californians at the San Francisco convention, and at a big shindig thrown at the Hotel Ambassador here in Los Angeles for Mayor Yorty, one comes away with the idea that Californians of both parties resent the civil rights uproar because it is disturbing an old placidity. The Spanish-speaking Mexicans must have felt this way when the invading Gringos from the East disrupted the idyllic calm of the "splendid, idle Forties" over a century ago.

The resentment against the invasion of the state by an "Eastern problem" coincides with the growing dislike of what "Washington" is doing to advance federal encroachment. "Washington," for one thing, means the U.S. Supreme Court. When the Court handed down its decision on legislative reapportionment, it struck at the old accommodation in the capital at Sacramento between Northern and Southern California. The South, with its swelling populations, has long since taken control of the State Assembly. But the North, through geographical representation, could always protect itself in the State Senate. Now the judicial command from Washington, D. C., to get about the business of electing all state representatives on the basis of population has Northern California seething. It fears that the South will use its preponderance of votes to steal the Northern session of a type that once carved the North's water, and there has even been talk of a state of West Virginia out of Virginia.

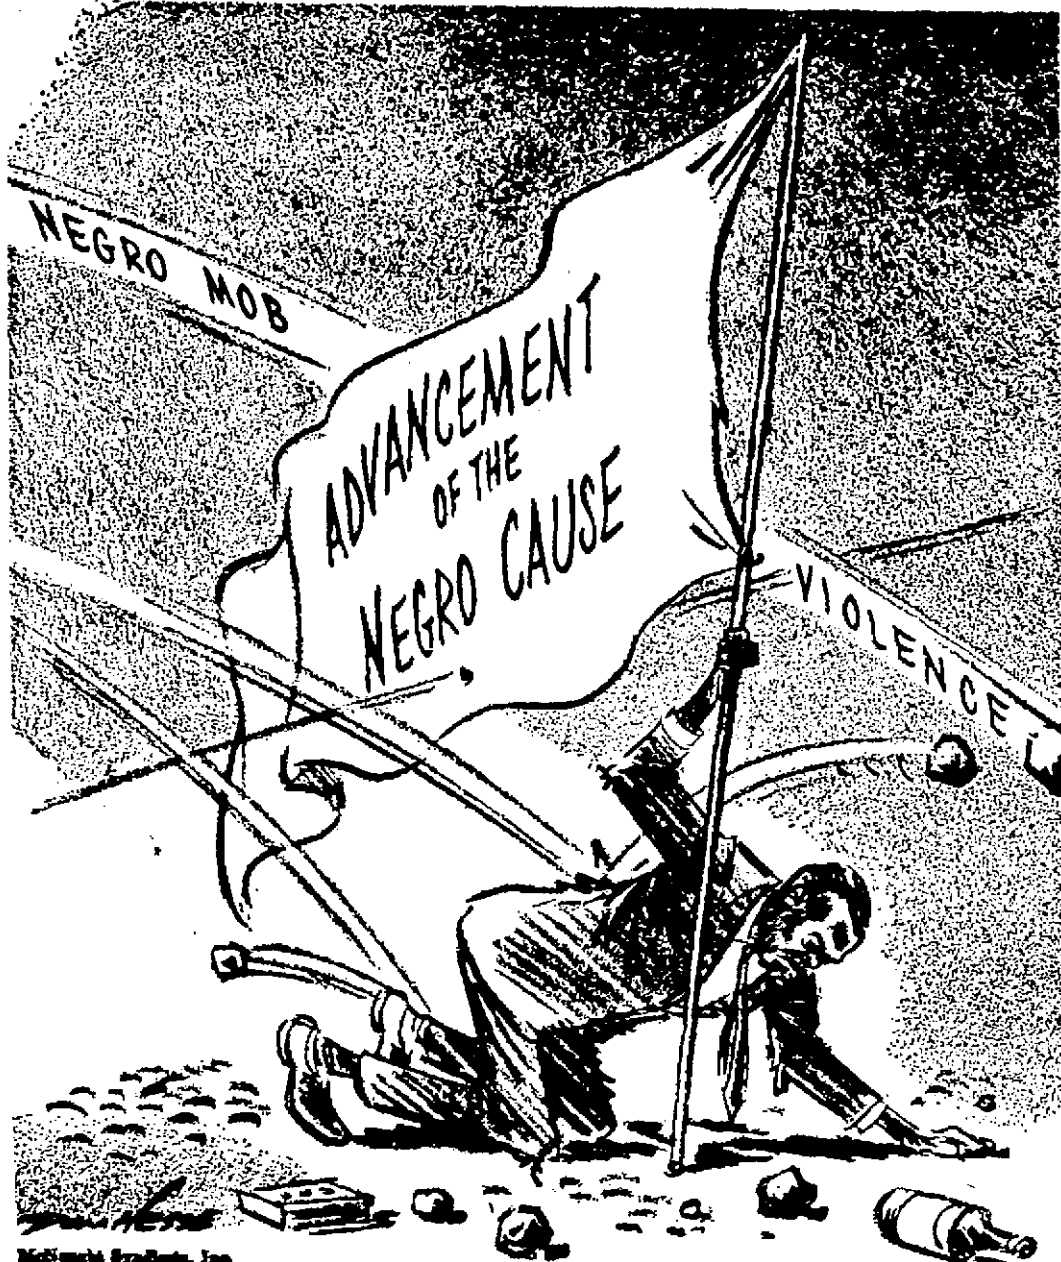

No one takes secession talk really seriously, but the voters could vent their spleen against "Washington" at the polls by pulling the Goldwater lever. Oddly, this might deliver crucial votes in Northern California, which is the "liberal" part of the state, into the Goldwater column to add to the big majorities he could get in Los Angeles and Orange counties on general conservative grounds.

Another resentment that gets increasing expression derives from growing harassment of people by both Federal and State tax officials. Despite the fact that he won his office as the "workingman's friend" who opposed right-to-work laws, Governor Brown, in his first years in Sacramento, had to increase taxes on beer and cigarettes and other things affecting low-bracket incomes. Further tax increases would naturally be a danger to his majority. So the tax collectors have been beating the bushes to get every last penny that is coming to them under present law. It's legitimate, but it's also a good way to alienate people.

It is said that in time "incumbents always beat themselves." This could give Goldwater a shot at a California victory.

Conflicts Abuse Right Of Public Demonstration

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Platitudes and hortatory statements deploring violence and urging respect for "law and order" will do little good in race conflicts such as have broken out recently in the big cities. The situation will be helped only when President Johnson and state executives, like New York's Governor Rockefeller, begin to brush aside their political sensitivity and start coming to grips with the root of the whole problem — the abuse of the so-called right of public demonstration.

A dispatch over the wires of the UPI last Saturday afternoon tells in a nutshell the story of what's happening and why. It reads as follows:

"New York — A Negro group led by an admitted Communist today went ahead with plans for a Harlem rally despite orders from the police commissioner prohibiting demonstrations by the group."

"The Harlem Defense Council is led by William Epton, who says he is a Communist and recently taunted police by saying 'there is nothing they can do about political beliefs.'"

Epton, who is 32 years old, later was arrested and charged with disorderly conduct. He was released on $500 bond and ordered to appear for a hearing on August 7. But in somewhat similar cases in the south, the Supreme Court of the United States has found technical reasons for reversing convictions for disorderly conduct and trespassing on private property. And, of course, all the Communists keep fully informed about such proceedings and then taunt the police with statements that Communists are "just another political party" and can claim "constitutional rights."

The present Supreme Court has upheld the right to demonstrate but unfortunately has ignored the long-established precedents in which rulings were made that it is unlawful to incite to violence.

There is nothing wrong with demonstrations in a mass meeting, held in a hall or an arena, where any person who wishes can attend and listen to speeches. But there is something potentially dangerous about a street demonstration which embitters and offends people whose involvement is involuntary as they happen to be in the area or as their homes are invaded and their places of business are looted.

Former President Eisenhower said in a press conference last year that every group "has a right to bring to the attention of the public its dissatisfactions when its rights are not recognized and allowed to be exercised," but that "when they go to the extent of irritating, exacerbating the situation, then I think we've had a little bit of a step back."

The sensible leaders of the Negro organizations today find themselves hindered by groups that are incited by Communists and other militant organizers who are confident they will not be punished because they can rely for immunity on the "right to demonstrate" as interpreted by the Supreme Court today.

Leaders of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, on the other hand, have begged persons to stay off the streets during critical times in their communities. The Chicago "Defender," a large newspaper of Negro ownership, has just called for a moratorium on demonstrations.

The United Press International a few days ago told of the chairman of the New York State District Committee of the Communist Party being photographed with another Communist as they attended a protest rally at which one leader, Jesse Gray, called for "guerilla warfare" against the police. Mr. Gray has taken the Fifth Amendment before the House Committee on Un-American Activities at least 20 times when asked about his Communist activities.

The head of the NAACP's New York branch is quoted as saying that "The Communists find out who is talking the wildest, and then jump in with them." There are, of course, plenty of "hate" groups without Communist connections, whose instinct is to resort to violence when they become angry.

When will the Supreme Court, however, see the trend toward widespread internal disorder due to its own faulty decisions and become realistic again? When will the phony issue of "police brutality" be dealt with courageously everywhere by the issuance of city ordinances prohibiting all kinds of street demonstrations at a time when public feeling has become so embittered over any issue that violence is inevitable? And in cities where the local police might prove inadequate, why do not the governors mobilize the state militia beforehand at known places of coming trouble, instead of waiting till after the outbreak to take action?

The basic issue cannot be ignored any longer, despite its political embarrassments. For the American people are beginning to see that the looting of stores, with damages running into the millions, has very little to do with the merits of any "civil rights" question, but has everything to do with the age-old problem of crushing crime by any measures of law enforcement deemed necessary to protect life and property.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

NOMINATION — To many professional politicians, the real meaning of events at San Francisco won't become plain until the November presidential balloting has been counted.

True, some in both parties are taking the short-range line that the selection of Barry Goldwater as the GOP presidential candidate was a major mistake bordering on disaster. But there is a longer view, and one worth thinking about as objectively as current heated politics will permit.

One must start from the premise that the GOP since 1932 has been, essentially, a minority party nationally. It wins, or comes close to winning, when it produces a magnetic personality or when the Democratic record becomes burdened with liabilities of its own doing.

If this is a valid statement, then it must follow that the so-called liberal wing of the GOP — the "Eastern Establishment" — has failed through nearly 30 years of promulgating its beliefs to persuade a majority of the nation's voters to rally behind it on a continuing basis.

Certainly, under these conditions, another approach, another policy, another set of ideals would seem worth a change—particularly when its adherents have demonstrated through a national primary campaign that it contained the only elements of dynamism in the party.

Admittedly, it is a gamble, and a big one. Very few politicians truly believe in their hearts that the GOP could weather the White House from the Democrats this year, regardless of which candidate had been selected.

If the conservative element, however, can attract a respectable showing at the polls in 1964, there is no reason why it should not have earned another chance, perhaps in 1968 or 1972, to field a ticket that can build a winning campaign.

On Cockroaches, Snuff And Sprays For Pain

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Cockroaches are on the carpet again. Everyone knows these filthy insects spoil food and may spread disease, but now it appears they have an "allergic potential."

Two Washington allergists, Dr. Harry S. Bernston and Dr. Halla Brown, tested 253 nonallergic and 114 allergic patients for sensitivity to roach allergen; 7 per cent of the first group and 28 per cent of the second reacted positively. The mechanism of sensitivity centers about food contaminated by roaches. Allergy workups of the future may include roach extracts.

Snuff dipping is one cause of cancer. The tobacco is placed between the gum and lower lip, and is used as a substitute for smoking.

In one survey of snuff users with carcinoma of the gum and cheek, a ratio of three women to two men reversed the usual incidence of two men to one woman with cancer of the tongue and floor of the mouth.

Spraying ethyl chloride on the skin to relieve muscle pain is an old remedy. It has been employed in such muscular conditions as lumbago and stiff neck and often is successful in obliterating pain impulses. Recently a new use of skin freezing was suggested by a Marine Corps medical officer. He found the therapy effective in easing sore throat caused by an infected or a swollen gland.

Dr. Sidney I. Brody developed this approach when faced with an outbreak of upper respiratory infections aboard the U. S. S. Saratoga. While examining the crew he noted tenderness of the large neck muscle that extends from the ear to the collar bone (sternocleidomastoid). Pain was relieved when he immobilized this structure with his thumbs and fingers. This suggested to him a trigger area located in the neck, which gave rise to referred pain to the throat.

He sprayed the skin over the thyroid gland (about the size of a half dollar) with ethyl chloride and many of the patients reported immediate relief of sore throat. Tenderness of the sternocleidomastoid muscle according to Dr. Brody, can result from acute or chronic muscle strain, injury, or emotional stress.

Ethyl chloride may be replaced

U. S. Boycotts Castro But Supplies Wheat To His Egyptian Counterpart

By Drew Pearson

ser's propaganda campaign against the United States.

Nasser's Anti-U. S. Campaign

Here is what he is doing:

1. — While the Republican Party was meeting in San Francisco, nobody noticed that the Libyan Foreign Minister, Hussayn Maaziy, visited Cairo and promised Nasser to throw Americans out of the Wheelus Air Force Base at Tripoli. This is the biggest bomber base we have outside the U.S.A. and our lease does not expire until 1967. However, the Libyan government, as a result of Nasser's prodding, is urging us to get out earlier.

2. — Nasser is also putting the heat on Emperor Haile Selassie in Ethiopia to cancel the U. S. communications base at Kagnew on the Red Sea. This is the most important foreign communications base we have. It's essential for tracking satellites. So far Haile Selassie has refused to budge, but Nasser is now accusing him of being a colonialist.

Castro, incidentally, has tried to get our bases canceled in Panama and Guantanamo but has not succeeded.

3. Nasser has received arms from Russia just as Castro has—though considerably more. He is now sending surplus arms to Somalia in order to stir up Guerilla warfare against our good friend, Ethiopia. This is what Castro has tried to do by shipping arms to Venezuela and Brazil though he has not succeeded.

The United States has had to supply Ethiopia with arms to combat this warfare. Thus, we are supplying wheat to Egypt, which helps pay indirectly for arms to Somalia; and then we have to send arms to Ethiopia to combat Nasser's arms.

4. — American wheat is also going to help pay for 40,000 Egyptian troops kept in Yemen. This is an attempt by Nasser to win control of Saudi Arabia and the American oil properties there, just as Castro tried to penetrate Venezuela in order to control U. S. oil properties in that country.

Biting The Hand That Feeds

The radio propaganda campaign against the United States in this Red Sea area is vicious—so much so that the Yemen Republic recently apologized to the American embassy.

The attacks occurred at the same time the United States was helping Yemen construct new roads, build a water purification plant and supply other economic aid; and Yemen officials made it clear that the Egyptians controlled the press and radio through their 40,000 troops and there was nothing Yemen could do about the anti-American tirades.

5. While President Nasser does not want war with Israel now, he is paying German technicians and scientists to develop modern rockets and, he hopes, nuclear weapons. American wheat indirectly is helping to pay for the cost of these ex-Nazis.

All this raises a serious question in the minds of our Allies. They wonder why the United States continues to subsidize a dictator who follows exactly the same policies as Castro and is more effective in carrying them out.

The French and British, for instance, are still smarting over Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal and Eisenhower's preemptory demand that their troops withdraw. This is one reason the French and British consider their policy of selling buses and trucks to Castro is no more inconsistent than our giving wheat to Nasser.

It's argued that if the United States did cut off American wheat, Nasser would make some drastic moves such as he did in 1956 when he seized the Suez Canal after John Foster Dulles withdrew U. S. promises to help build the Aswan Dam.

It's true that Nasser is ruthless and unpredictable. However, at the present moment he cannot buy wheat anywhere else in the world. Possibly he can next year. The Russian harvest may then be better.

Furthermore, he can't attack Israel successfully now. Israel is too well armed.

When in Israel I queried Israeli leaders as to whether they were worried over a Nasser attack. They are not — at least not until he develops the modern rockets on which the ex-Nazi scientists are working, which we are helping to pay for.

Labor Costs

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, Mass. — Any man who owns a business, no matter what kind it is — store, service station, laundry, or factory — is going to see more of his money go for labor costs in the months ahead. This is fine, of course, for the employees, if the company is prospering and can manage to stay afloat; but it means more problems than ever for the owners.

There are plenty of good solid reasons to expect the rise in labor costs to continue, and both business operators and their workers should be interested in keeping their company thriving under these conditions. I am talking as much to employees as I am to their bosses, because only through their joint efforts can jobs and incomes be safe for both. If even a small firm goes under, it seems a further burden of unemployment, not only for the families involved but also for the whole community.

A look at union contracts in practically all of the important industries shows that the trend of both wages and fringe benefits is still strongly upward. I predict that for at least the rest of this year and next there will be no leveling off. Profits of nearly all the big corporations are high, and the union leaders are dead set on earning their keep by getting the biggest possible slice of the profits pie for their members. Remember, too, that it doesn't take long for the gains in unionized organizations to spread out to the workers in nonunion plants.

Let me stress that there not only will be continued increases in pay rates and in fringe benefits, but that these increases may be bigger than they have been. Package raises (wages plus worker benefits) have been running about 3% to 4%. Upcoming agreements may be stepped up closer to 5%. If so, this will be due not only to union hammerings on them, but also to the fact that management is always more willing to allow larger gains when business is booming and profits are sizeable.

Fringe benefits will play a bigger part in labor costs over the period ahead. The unions highlight them in practically every bargaining session; and nonunion businesses are forced to give them serious consideration in order to attract high-grade people to work for them. I understand that most of those who go looking for work ask the personnel directors about health programs, pensions, vacations, holidays, insurance, and such. Once in a while it seems as if an applicant is more interested in whether or not he will get a coffee break than he is in the basic wage rates or in the working hours he will have. There is no doubt about it—fringe benefits are here to stay; and both employers and employees should realize that such fringes are very costly—even though the cost may not be so immediately evident as that of wages.

I suppose nobody really wants to flout the government's plea to hold the line on wages and prices; but the fact is, they are doing it! Pay and price inflation has become such a habit in this country that with things going well it is easy to forget that serious difficulties can result if such inflation becomes "runaway." So, until government gets more excited about pay-price inflation, I look for labor leaders and businessmen to keep a careful eye on both wages and production costs. As I have pointed out, the inching ahead of labor costs will mean a tighter squeeze on labor outlays for businesses all along the line. The only way that employers can avoid raising prices to hold profit margins is by lowering other costs. This means increasing efficiency, installing time-saving and labor-saving equipment, and cutting out all possible waste. Even then, it will test the ingenuity of executives to come out ahead or at least hold their own. With high materials and service costs, still huge taxes, and the endless expenditures necessary to meet the bitter competition in promotion and sales, the very best and the highest-grade executives should be secured and encouraged.

Phillies Fear Being "Left" Behind In Three-Game Series With Giants

Giants Slate 2 Southpaws In Vital Set

Mauch Searching For Right-Handers; Triandos Fizzles

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—The National League leading Philadelphia Phillies have two pressing problems—the second place San Francisco Giants and their own inability to beat southpaws. Manager Gene Mauch and General Manager John Quinn are well aware that the Phillies can't do something about coping with left-handed pitchers. They're combing the waiver lists for some right-hand power.

Take the last 20 games for example. The pitcher of record against the Phillies in 14 of these games has been a southpaw. Of the club's last 12 defeats, 10 have been by left-handers.

By tossing in left-handers, the other clubs keep the Phillies predominantly left-hand power on the bench.

Ironically, the Phillies are most vulnerable to the left-handers at home. Statistics show their record is 7-13 against them at Connie Mack Stadium, 10-6 on the road. Against right-handers they are 18-5 at home, 21-16 on the road.

Mauch knows there is not much relief in sight. San Francisco opens a three game series here Tuesday night with lefty Billy O'Dell. Juan Marichal, a right-hander is slated for the second game, but Bob Hendley, another southpaw, is being readied for the third.

Mauch has gone to extremes to get right-hand hitters in the line-up, but still no power. Catcher Gus Triandos played first base Sunday to get more right-hand power into the line-up. It didn't help. Triandos went hitless.

The only consistent right-hand hitter third baseman Richie Allen, hitting .313 with 17 home runs.

Gordon Dunn, 52, Former Olympic Athlete, Dies

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Gordon G. Dunn, 52, former Olympic athlete, died here Monday of an apparent heart attack.

Dunn was graduated in 1936 from Stanford, went to the Olympics in Berlin that year and placed second in discus competition. He participated in 13 West Coast Relays at Fresno and won 15 first place gold watches.

Dunn was born in Portland, Ore. in 1912.

He was mayor of Fresno from 1949 to 1957.

Ted Williams Will Undergo Surgery

BOSTON (AP)—Retired Red Sox star Ted Williams who has been a patient in New England Baptist Hospital since July 12 will be operated on Tuesday to relieve pressure on a nerve caused by a ruptured disc.

The surgeon, who asked that his name not be used, said the former batting star had first complained of a leg pain and has been in traction in the hospital.

Williams was believed to have hurt his back while playing golf. But the back trouble isn't new, he had spent some time previously in traction in the hospital.

Jack Nicklaus Top Money Winner

DUNEDIN, Fla. (AP)—Jack Nicklaus continues to lead professional golfers in money won during 1964 with a total of $90,837 and is more than $10,000 ahead of Arnold Palmer, who has banked $60,693.

Ken Venturi's victory in the Insurance City Open boosted him into sixth place with $43,065.

Tony Lema is third with $36,778, followed by Bill Casper Jr. with $37,414, Juan Rodriguez $35,610 and Bob Nichols $34,527.

Mason Rudolph is seventh with $38,837. Mike Souchak has won $37,414, Juan Rodriguez $35,610 and Bob Nichols $34,527.

Tork Is Second In Pole Vault

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Pole vaulter Dave Tork of Morgantown, W. Va., finished second behind Fred Hansen, Cuero, Tex., in the track and field between the United States and Russia.

Tork, a native of Fairmont, and now on the staff of West Virginia University, cleared the bar at 15 feet, 11 inches.

Hansen, a 23-year-old graduate student, took the lead in the pole vault Saturday with a leap of 17 feet, 4 inches to better his pending world mark by two inches.

ELORDE RETAINS TITLE IN PROTESTED FIGHT—Flash Elorde of the Philippines, swings a right to the head of Japan's Teruo Kosaka in the 12th round of their fight Monday in Tokyo. Referee stopped the fight and gave Elorde credit for a technical knockout. Fans protested and police stepped in to guard the winner who holds the world's junior lightweight title. Japan Boxing Commission will investigate the bout. (AP Photofax via radio from Tokyo)

Carty Vying For Bat Title

Ken Boyer Leads In Runs Driven In

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Maybe they'd better start calling Rico Carty's batting average a cartiograph the way he's giving National League pitchers heart failure in his rookie season.

The 24-year-old Milwaukee outfielder from the Dominican Republic is challenging Roberto Clemente and Billy Williams for the batting lead and Philadelphia's Richie Allen for rookie-of-the-year honors.

In his last 14 games, Carty has hit at a .453 pace with 24 hits in 53 times at bat and raised his average from .307 to .342. The Braves' slugger, up from Austin of the Texas League, has 219 official times at bat. The current leaders are based on a minimum of 225 at bats.

Clemente, veteran Pittsburgh outfielder, took over the top spot with a gain of two points to .343 in last week's games. He collected 11 hits in 30 attempts. Williams of the Chicago Cubs dropped to second at .341. He lost one point with 10 safeties in 30 tries.

Ron Santo of the Cubs advanced one place to third on a two-point increase to .327 while Cincinnati's Deron Johnson climbed to fourth with a .322 mark.

Willie Mays of San Francisco slumped two notches to fifth. He managed only five hits in 28 trips last week, dropping 12 points to .321. Hank Aaron of Milwaukee is a close sixth at .320 while Allen, the Philadelphia freshman third baseman, is next with .313.

Mays, the pace-setter with 29 home runs, lost the runs batted in lead to Ken Boyer of St. Louis. Boyer drove in seven runs in last week's action, giving him 73 for the season. Santo is second with 72 followed by Mays with 68. The figures include Sunday's games.

In the American League, rookie Tony Oliva of Minnesota continued to hit consistently, maintaining his league-leading average at .334 with 11 hits in 33 at bats.

Mickey Mantle of the New York Yankees wrestled second place from Minnesota's Bob Allison. Mantle picked up one point to .325 with eight hits in 24 trips while Allison slumped to fourth at .310. The Twins' first baseman collected only three safeties in 27 attempts and fell 16 points.

Brooks Robinson, Baltimore, moved up one notch to third at .313 although he dropped seven points with a 7-for-29 performance.

Harmon Killebrew of Minnesota continues to lead the AL homers with 34 while Boston's Dick Stuart is tops in RBI with 84.

Tiger Blames His Pilot For Failure To Get Return Go

NEW YORK (AP)—Former middleweight champion Dick Tiger, who lost his title to Joey Giardello last December, Monday blamed his manager, Jersey Jones, for not getting him a return bout with the current champion.

Tiger made this charge at a boxing writers' luncheon and drew no rebuttal from Jones, who sat at a nearby table.

Tiger, a native of Amaigbo Orlu, Nigeria, has been matched with Jose Gonzalez of Puerto Rico.

The pair will meet Friday, July 31, in a nationally televised 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

Elorde Victor Over Kosaka On Technical K.O. In 12th

Referee Halts Bout In Tokyo; Winner Is Pelted With Cushions

By LESLIE NAKASHIMA
UPI Sports Writer

TOKYO (UPI)—Filipino Flash Elorde retained his world junior lightweight title Monday night on a 12th-round technical knockout over Japan's Teruo Kosaka but he was pelted with cushions during an angry demonstration by the 8,000 spectators.

The Japan Boxing Commission immediately ordered a hearing for Tuesday, to determine if the Filipino referee had acted wisely in stopping the fight when Kosaka was leading on points on two of the three official cards.

Elorde made a seventh successful defense of his 130-pound crown when referee Jose Padilla stopped the fight at 1:45 of the 12th round.

Williams College 1963 Co-Captain Dies Of Cancer

WILLIAMSTOWN, Mass. (AP)—Michael M. Reilly, 22, co-captain of the 1963 Williams College football team, has died of cancer in New Orleans, it was announced by the college Monday.

Reilly, a six-foot, three-inch center, rated one of the finest linemen to ever play at Williams, had wasted to less than 160 pounds when he was graduated last month.

The college said he was stricken in the winter of 1962-63 and had known for a year his condition was incurable. He nonetheless attended every Williams practice session last fall and dressed for all eight games, although too weak to play.

Kelly Loop Finale Reset For Today

The game between Curing Room and Receiving, last one of the Kelly Softball League season, was rained out yesterday and will be played this evening at 6 p.m. Curing Room needs a win to give them the league championship. A loss would tie them with 51-A, giving each a share of the title.

Ralston Winner On Grass Courts

SOUTH ORANGE, N.J. (UPI)—Top-seeded Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., Monday began his quest for his first Eastern Grass courts championship by easily winning his first round battle against Edward Newman of San Antonio, Tex., 6-1, 6-2.

Second-seeded Frank Froehling of Coral Gables had a harder job ousting Frank Lamathe of New Orleans, 6-3, 6-4.

Fourth-seeded Martin Riessen of Evanston, Ill., won his first round battle from D. R. Saberton of Ashland, 6-3, 6-0, fifth seeded Art Ashe of Richmond, Va., outplayed Gene Cantin of Berkeley, Calif., 6-3, 6-3, and Mike Sangster of England, seeded sixth, conquered U. S. Junior Davis Cup star, Jerry Cromwell of Long Beach Calif., 6-2, 6-2.

Tony Fined $250

BOSTON (AP)—Young Tony Conigliaro, the Boston Red Sox rookie left fielder, has been fined $250 for breaking the club's curfew restriction in 10-round bout at Madison Square Garden.

the 12th round, after the blood-smeared challenger had been floored by a left hook for a count of eight and then battered into grogginess. Kosaka had been stopped only once before, by lightweight champion Carlos Ortiz in 1962.

For the scheduled 15-round battle of southpaws, 29-year-old Elorde weighed 130 pounds, the junior lightweight limit; and Kosaka, 23, scaled 129 1/2.

Elorde Fuzzed
When police had quieted the crowd and escorted Elorde to his dressing room, the champion asked:

"What happened to those people tonight? I thought the Japanese people were my friends. But they hit me with those seat cushions. Why did they hit me?"

At the end of the 11th round, one of the ring judges—Anthony Petronella of Providence, R.I., chairman of the World Boxing Association's rating committee—had Kosaka ahead on points, 51-49. Judge Seiji Ebine of Japan also had Kosaka ahead, 53-51.

However, referee Padilla favored Elorde, 53-50, as did the United Press International, 54-52.

Kosaka was bleeding freely from a cut on his left brow. The only knockdown occurred in the 12th round but Elorde shook up the challenger several times, particularly in the second and seventh rounds, with solid straight lefts to the head.

Willie Galimore, John Farrington Rites Set Today

RENSSELAER, Ind. (AP)—Funeral services for Willie Galimore and John Farrington were set for 10 a.m. Tuesday in Jackson Funeral Home here.

Their Chicago Bear teammates will attend. The funeral home said additional services will be conducted in each of the players' hometowns. Galimore will be buried in Tallahassee and Farrington at Houston.

A local minister will conduct the services Tuesday. There will be no eulogy. "The coaches are too broken up to do anything," a funeral home spokesman said.

Conigliaro Goes On Disabled List

BOSTON (UPI)—Slugging rookie outfielder Tony Conigliaro returned to Boston Monday with a fractured forearm and Red Sox officials said he probably would be placed on the disabled list for at least 30 days.

Dr. Thomas M. Tierney, team physician, x-rayed the right forearm of the 19-year-old player and afterwards described the fracture as "not too bad."

However, Dr. Tierney estimated the arm would have to remain in a cast for three weeks and in a splint for an additional week. He said it would take at least a week after the splint is removed to return muscle tone to the arm. Conigliaro suffered the fracture when struck by a Pete Ramos' pitch in the second game of a doubleheader with the Indians Sunday in Cleveland.

The prize rookie had hit his 20th home run in the first game.

Braves To Practice

The Braves of the Dapper Dan Little League will practice today, tomorrow, and Thursday at Sticher Field. All practices will begin at 10:00.

Willis Pulls Junior Boys Tennis Upset

Edges Klosterman; Kasecamp Wins Boys Championship

New champions were crowned in the Boys and Junior Boys divisions of the Allegheny County Closed Tennis Tournament as a result of matches played yesterday afternoon at the Beall High courts in Frostburg.

Wayne Kasecamp did as was expected of him, beating Larry Willis in straight sets for the Boys title (6-0, 6-3). The other match, however, did not go according to form, as Jim Willis ousted top-seeded Rocky Klosterman (6-4, 6-6, 6-4) to capture the Junior Boys championship.

Willis used his big hard serve to good advantage as he pulled his second straight upset victory. The Cumberland bomber had defeated second-seeded Jim Chaney Saturday afternoon to gain the finals (3-6, 6-4, 8-6).

After winning the first set, Willis was only able to score four points in the second, but he broke Klosterman's service in the tenth game of the nip-and-tuck decider and went on to win.

Klosterman had beaten Willis twice this year in the high school league and once in the Night Tournament at the Garlitz courts.

Kasecamp, a Frostburg lad, had been favored in the Boys Division and had little trouble with the up-and-coming Willis, also of the Mountain City.

This year's play marked the second year that the closed tournament had been held at Frostburg. It was also the second year of Boys division action in Allegheny County.

Last year's winners were the Chaney brothers, Jim in the Boys ranks and John in the Junior Boys setup.

Angler Hooks 814 Pound Blue Marlin For World Record

ST. THOMAS, Virgin Islands (AP)—John Battles, a St. Thomas angler, claimed a world record Monday for the 814-pound blue marlin he caught Sunday during a fishing tournament here.

Battles, using an 80-pound test line, took one hour and five minutes to land the fish, which was 13 feet 8 inches long and 69 inches in girth.

The previous record blue marlin listed by the International Game Fishing Association weighed 810 pounds.

Steele Star's Son Bill Rawnsley 9-1 Is Allegany Teacher Hemmis Is 7th

By C. V. BURNS

ARMAND G. NICCOLAI, of State Teachers College, Monessen, Pa., who comes to Allegheny High School as industrial arts teacher this fall, is the son of an outstanding college and professional football tackle of yesterday.

If one goes back to the late 1930s and the early 1940s he'll find that Armand Niccolai, of Dunlevy, Pa., played for the Pittsburgh Pirates and later the Pittsburgh Steelers for nine years and also was a teacher in the off seasons.

The senior Niccolai tipped the beam at 230 pounds and was 6 feet, 3 inches tall when he played tackle for Pittsburgh teams in the days Byron "Whizzer" White, Bill Dudley, etc., were the backfield standouts. Pittsburgh teams, incidentally, have been in the N.F.L. since 1933 and they have been headed by Art Rooney as president every year. The Pirates were renamed Steelers in 1942.

Before playing pro ball, Niccolai excelled on the gridiron for Duquesne University. The new industrial arts teacher is a graduate of California, Pa. State College where he majored in industrial arts. He was graduated in 1960 from Monessen High School where he played football.

LARRY BOLYARD of Aurora, Preston county, W. Va., is among those favorably mentioned in connection with the baseball coaching post at Potomac State College, left vacant by the resignation of John Fox.

Bolyard is a graduate of Shepherd College and is a brother of "Bucky" Bolyard, former West Virginia U. basketball star.

BILL RAWNSLEY, who heads the pitchers of the Pen-Mar Baseball League with a 9-1 record, is a product of the Dapper Dan Little League and hurled for the Cardinals in that circuit in 1956, 1957 and 1958.

The winningest pitcher in the Pen-Mar this year won 11 and lost six in two seasons with the Cumberland Optimists in the Hot Stove League in 1959 and 1960. He posted a 2-year mark of 5-2 at Fort Hill High School and was 14-9 for Gurely's in the Rec League before joining the Hermans.

Rawnsley is employed at the B. & O. Bolt & Forge plant.

His biggest booster is his grandmother who seldom misses a game when Bill is on the firing line. Mrs. Rose Rice, 219 Maple Street, has raised Bill since he was an infant. He will be 19 in September.

The Hermans' ace has beaten every team in the Pen-Mar this season but Frostburg.

Rawnsley holds double decisions over Lonaconing 14-7 and 2-1 Hyndman 6-4 and 11-2. Keyser 5-0 and 7-3 and the Cumberland Merchants 6-5, Mt. Savage 4-0 and Barroville 8-7. His first loss came at the hands of Keyser on Saturday.

He will teach a commercial course at South Hagerstown High School.

Roy Comer, the former Ridgeley, previously quit as head coach and baseball mentor at Martinsburg to accept a job at Frederick High School.

DO YOU KNOW it was just 30 years ago that Fort Cumberland Post No. 13 won the American Legion junior baseball world series at Chicago by beating New Orleans.

CHARLES W. "Chuck" Rhodes is the second Martinsburg High School coach to resign this summer.

Rhodes was the Bulldogs' head wrestling mentor and also assisted in baseball and coached the sophomore football team.

Reds' Skipper Hospitalized

Misses Road Trip To "Take Tests"

CINCINNATI (AP)—Fred Hutchinson, the 44-year-old manager of the Cincinnati Reds who is fighting a chest cancer, passed up the start of a road trip by his team Monday and went into a hospital "for tests."

The announcement from the Reds' front office said Hutchinson had entered Christ Hospital, probably would be there several days and that Coach Dick Sisler would be in charge of the club during his absence.

The Reds, 3 1/2 games out of first place in the National League, were in Milwaukee Monday night for the opening of a series.

William O. DeWitt, president and general manager of the Reds, said Hutchinson has been bothered considerably by pains in his back.

He said Hutchinson felt he should check before the start of the road trip and that Dr. George Ballou, Cincinnati team physician, advised him to enter Christ Hospital.

DeWitt said that as far as he knew Dr. Ballou had not talked with Dr. William Hutchinson, brother of the manager who has directed previous treatment at their home town, Seattle, Wash.

The existence of the cancer first was disclosed early last January. He had gone to Seattle from his home in Florida for a check-up after recurring pains.

Hutch was able to rejoin the Reds for the start of spring training in Tampa, Fla. He said then he had been told treatments appeared to have been successful but that he should take it a bit easier than usual.

In June, when the Reds went to the West Coast, Hutch took time off for a trip to Seattle. He was there only one day and the only announcement was that no further treatment was needed at the time.

He has carried a full load of work, except for more rest periods, and last week he insisted his biggest worry was winning the pennant.

Atlanta Seeking Grid Team For $18 Million Stadium

ATLANTA (AP)—Atlanta didn't get the St. Louis Cardinals, so the disappointed city is resuming immediately its search to find a professional football tenant for its $18 million stadium.

"Now we'll just begin again and we'll start immediately," said Opie Shelton, executive director of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce. "Atlanta has everything to offer."

"Naturally, we're disappointed," said Arthur L. Montgomery, chairman of the Atlanta-Fulton County Recreation Authority, which is leading the drive to build the stadium. "But we haven't given up. We still feel that we will get a good team."

Jets Cut Five

PEEKSKILL, N.Y. (AP)—The New York Jets of the American Football League cut five players, three linebackers and two ends, Monday to bring their camp roster down to 53.

Coach Weeb Ewbank also announced that Art Donovan, one-year All-Pro tackle who played eight seasons for Ewbank at the NFL Baltimore Colts, will work for one week with the defensive line.

Frostburg-Oakland In LL Playoff Today

Garrett Team Plays Host In District Game

Clash 7th Time
In Series; Tilt
Set For 6:15 PM

Frostburg's Little League All-Stars will be competing in the District One playoffs for the tenth consecutive year today when they face the Oakland Little League All-Stars at Oakland at 6:15 p.m. The Frostburg-Oakland contest is one of the four scheduled in Western Maryland today.

Clash 7th Time
Garrett and Allegany county Little Leaguers will be tangling for the 7th time in the playoffs with Frostburg holding a 4-2 edge in victories. Frostburg scored wins in 1957 (4-3), 1958 (8-1), 1960 (5-1) and 1962 (14-6). Oakland was the winner in 1959 (8-4) and 1961 (4-1).

Frostburg's players, selected by the managers of the six teams in the league are: Charles Muletz, George Tharpe, Paul Hunter, Robert Passarelli, William Pantuso, Joseph Kenney, Dennis Bridges, Paul Brode, Mike Skinner, Blaine Watson, William Kopp, Elwood Filer, Bruce Lemmert, Paul Smith with Joseph Femi as alternate.

Last year Hancock ushered out Oakland, 5-0. Frostburg whipped Hancock, 9-1 and Halfway of Washington county eliminating Frostburg, 5-0.

Nationals Win, 6-0

The District One playoffs opened yesterday in Hagerstown with the National League of the Hub City downing West End, the 1962 state champions, by the score of 6-0.

Other pairings today are: Hagerstown Nationals vs. Conococheague League, at Williamsport.

Halfway League vs. Hagerstown American League.

Valley League vs. Federal League.

The winner of the Frostburg-Oakland game will play the victor in the Halfway-Hagerstown Americans game in a Thursday semi-final in Hagerstown. If Frostburg or Oakland goes to the finals, they'll play on Friday.

Samuel T. Walker is president of the Frostburg Little League. Robert L. Day, of Hagerstown, is district administrator and tournament director.

Hall Of Fame Admits Seven New Members

President Johnson
Sends His Congrats

COOPERSTOWN, N. Y. (UPI)—The doors of baseball's Hall of Fame swung wide on the 25th anniversary of the Hall's founding Monday to admit seven new members, including current Kansas City A's coach Luke Appling.

The admissions brought to 101 the number of "immortals" of the game now honored by membership in the Hall.

Along with Appling, those admitted were Heinie Manush, Burleigh Grimes, and Urban (Red) Faber, all of whom were present, and three men elected posthumously by a special "old-timers" committee—John Montgomery Ward, Miller Huggins, and Tim Lincecum.

A congratulatory message to the new members from President Lyndon B. Johnson was read at the opening of the gala installation ceremonies by Baseball Commissioner Ford C. Frick.

Also attending the 25th anniversary celebration were 10 other members of the hall of fame—George Sisler, Frank Frisch, Bill Terry, Sam Rice, Elmer Flick, Charley Gehring, Joe McCarthy, Ray Schalk, Bill McKechnie, and Joe Cronin, now president of the American League.

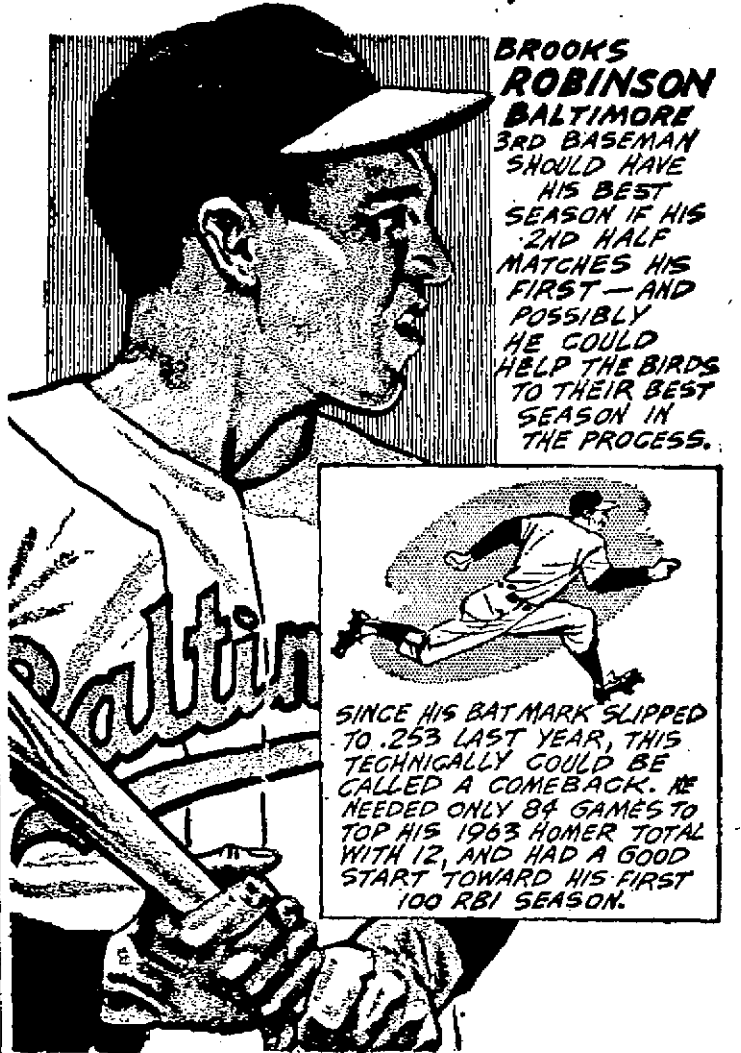

New York (AP)—Possible expansion of the National Basketball Association will be considered Tuesday at the summer meeting of the board of governors.

NBA Commissioner J. Walter Kennedy said Monday that "several cities have expressed a firm interest in the possibility of an NBA franchise, but whether any action will be taken at this meeting, I don't know."

Deaths Of Farrington, Galimore Stun Bears

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
RENNSELAER, Ind. (AP)—

Bunkum Road is a strip of asphalt swerving through cornfields from this Indiana farm town.

On it, two miles west of the Chicago Bears' training camp at St. Joseph's College, is a highly dangerous turn.

The arrow-pointing curve sign had been knocked down two weeks ago and never set back.

If it had been, star halfback Willie Galimore and pass catcher Ed John Farrington of the Bears might yet be alive.

Their small car, with an open sun-roof, skidded out of control and flipped about 10:30 p.m. Sunday. They shot through the roof and were killed.

George Halas, 69-year-old owner-coach of the National Football League champion Bears, a shaken man fighting to keep back the tears, said:

"I got a call from the sheriff's office about curfew time at 11 p.m. He said two of my players had been in an accident and I should go to the hospital. I didn't know then who they were."

"When I arrived at the hospital, I saw a doctor standing over Bo (Farrington's nickname) and I thought he was being treated."

"He's dead," said the doctor. Then I looked around the room and I saw Galimore. "He's dead, too," said the doctor.

"This is the saddest day. The most difficult thing I ever had to do was call Audrey (Galimore's widow and mother of three) in Tallahassee, Fla., and Bo's wife, Vivian, in Houston. They broke down. Audrey is flying in. I don't know what Vivian will do yet."

The Farringtons were married last March and she is an expectant mother.

Galimore, one of the most feared break-away runners in the league, was looking great in practice. At the end of the 1962 season, he had both knees operated on. He had a fine year, mainly as a spot player, last season.

Many of the Bear players did not know of the tragedy until morning. They sat and stared.

Defensive halfback Bennie McRae said he almost went with Willie and Bo to the country club.

"They played golf in the morning there," he said. "After our evening team feeding they would go to the club and watch the track meet on television. I went later with some other guys. It's funny how things work out."

Westernport took over second place in the Bi-State Pony Baseball League by defeating the Cresaptown Zeniths yesterday at Westernport by the score of 10-9.

The win gave Westernport an 11-5 record while Cresaptown dropped into third place with a 12-6 mark.

Lefty Jerry Price (7-3) went the distance for Westernport, gave up 14 hits and struck out 15 batsmen.

A walk to Greg Patrone and a two-base wallop by Rich Green, his fourth hit of the game, broke a 9-9 tie in the ninth inning.

Westernport collected 13 hits. Leo Mazzone rapped four singles. Green banged a double and three singles and Mike Orr rapped two doubles and a single for the victors. George Strickland collected a triple and two singles and Gallagher also had two hits for Cresaptown.

Frostburg American Legion remained 2½ games ahead in the pennant race by trouncing Ellerslie by the score of 18-9. It was Ellerslie's 18th loss in 19 starts.

Cutter and Layman blasted homers and the latter also had a double for Frostburg. Denny Snelson hit for the circuit for Ellerslie. The win went to Ricky Kerr, his third of the season. Royce Thompson (1-7) was tagged with the loss.

Danny Cessna hurled Mt. Savage to a 4-2 decision over the LaVale Pirates in a game played at Mt. Savage. It was Cessna's third triumph of the campaign.

Glen Twigg, who relieved Kenny Smith in the third, absorbed the loss.

Hickie, of LaVale, had the game's only extra base hit—a double.

At Shehan Field, LaVale's Cubs posted their fourth straight victory at the expense of Loxonoring, 10-1.

Jeff Williams fired a 4-hitter and recorded his 7th victory against four losses. Wayne Shockey took the loss.

One of Loxonoring's hits was a double by Tom Shockey. John Corley had a perfect day at the plate for LaVale with a triple and two singles while Eric Grina garnered three singles.

Valley High Has Four Grid Games Lined Up

Northern First Foe
Sept. 11; Drills To Start August 15

Coach Tom Harman is busy these days putting together a schedule for Valley High School, which enters the football picture this fall and thus far he has lined up four contests.

Northern High School of Garrett county will be Valley High's first, opponent on the afternoon of Friday, September 11, at Lunenburg.

Another home contest is definitely set for Saturday, October 3 with Loudoun Valley High School of Purcellville, Va.

Valley will play Shepherdstown High School on Saturday, November 7 and will meet Bruce High School in Westernport Saturday, November 14.

Other possible opponents for the Black Knights are LaSalle High School and Beall High School.

With the season drawing to a close, Red Sox joined the mad scramble for first place in the Dapper Division of the Dapper-Dapper Little League yesterday, by defeating the Phillies, 9-0, behind the one-hit pitching of Wayne Conway and Paul Schweinsberg.

The Red Sox scored three runs in each of the first three innings to settle the issue early. Jack Cheney smashed three doubles for the winners. Sammy Blume nabbed two singles and two doubles, and Schweinsberg singled twice and doubled.

Gary Bishop had the Phillies' only hit, a third-inning double off Conway. Martin started at second base for the Phils.

The Cubs-Yankees and Giants-Pirates games were both rained out. The Pirates are tied with the Orioles and the Cardinals for first place. The Red Sox trail by one-half game, with the season ending Friday.

Valley High School's football candidates will start two-a-day drills, on Saturday, August 15, Harman expects about 55 boys to report.

Phillies Beat Orioles, 2-1, In Exhibition

Error By Johnson
Is Costly In 11th

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Third baseman Bob Johnson's costly error in the 11th inning enabled the Philadelphia Phillies to nip the Baltimore Orioles 2-1 in their inter-league benefit game Monday night.

John Briggs started the winning rally with a double and cookie Rojas singled him to third. Then Costen Shockey hit a ground ball to first baseman John Orsino who tossed to catcher Dick Brown as Briggs broke for the plate.

Brown chased Briggs toward third and then threw the ball to Johnson who dropped it as Briggs raced home with the winning run off Baltimore coach Billy Hunter.

Earlier, the teams had gone through eight scoreless innings before each side scored in the ninth with aid of faulty fielding.

For Orioles, Brown singled and when he made a wide turn at first, Phils second baseman Tony Taylor took the relay, but threw over first into the stands.

Brown moved to third on the error and came home on Jerry Adair's single.

John Herrstein singled to open the ninth for the Phils. He advanced to second on Reuben Amaro's safety and continued to third when Willy Kirkland booted the ball.

Later, with bases loaded, young Frank Bert

Midland and Barton both scored victories at home yesterday in the Twilight Baseball League, Midland edging Gilmore, 4-3, and Barton whipping Lonaconing, 7-4, to continue their two-team battle for the league lead.

John Johnson homered, George Lauder grabbed a pair of singles, and Ed Warnick got a single and a double to give Ellie Fazenbaker his fifth win of the year against only one loss at Barton.

Roger Wilson and Kenny Johnson each singled twice for Coney as Jim Wilson took the loss.

With one out in the bottom of the seventh at Midland, Allan Elis-el was walked intentionally to load the bases, and Paul "Bubbles" Thompson followed by squeezing in the winning run.

The play was set up by Frank Gonzales' single and Roger Cutler's double. Gonzales' score gave him the mound victory, while Bill Hook accepted the loss.

Gonzales and Cutler each had one other single besides their seventh-inning blows. Curt Johnson, Andy Feiker, and Hook each gathered two singles for Gilmore.

The Westport at Cumberland game was postponed on account of rain and will be made up today at Taylor Field.

STOP WORRYING. IT'S A SHAME TO LET

BESIDES, THE MOTHS

DAGWOOD--I DON'T LIKE THE COAT

THOSE GOOD REASON FOR NOT BUYING IT GO TO

BLONDIE
 WEAR A FUR COAT ON A HOT DAY LIKE THIS?
 GOSH, GULLY! YOU'VE SUNK!

SCAMP
 GOSH, GULLY! YOU'VE SUNK!

JULIET JONES
 MOM SAID YOU HAD TO ASK YOUR MOTHER FOR PERMISSION TO DATE ME!

PEANUTS
 I HAD TO SEE THIS FOR MYSELF...
 MOM SAID YOU HAD TO ASK YOUR MOTHER FOR PERMISSION TO DATE ME!

BEETLE BAILEY
 SOMEONE TOLD COOKE THAT COFFEE GROUNDS WERE GOOD FOR HIS FLOWERS.

BUZZ SAWYER
 I'M SICK AND TIRED OF YOUR STUPID INSUBORDINATION, GOOL. WHILE COR. AND MRS. SAWYER ARE ABOARD, YOU WILL HAVE DUTIES ASHORE. IS THAT CLEAR?

BARNEY & SNUFFY
 LOOKY OUT YONDER, MAW-AIN'T THAT A DADBURN REVENOOER?
 I CAN'T SEE TOO GOOD, PAW-IT'S SO PITCH DARK

DICK TRACY
 YOU SAY YOUR FATHER TRAVELED TO SOUTH AMERICA EVERY YEAR LOOKING FOR NURSERY STOCK?
 YES, MR. TRACY.

GRIN AND BEAR IT
 "And the sales of our shampoo division have since we changed directions on the bottle to a few drops to 'apply liberally to the hair'."

[illegible]

MIGHT EAT IT UP!

WASTE

I, WHILE TIDE'S HOT!

ALL YOU GOT TO IS... STOP EATING!

RIP RIP

SHE SAID THAT'S LIKE THE AVERAGE PERSON DOING IT WITHOUT BEING ASKED AT ALL!

I HAVE A VERY SARCASTIC MOTHER.

SO ARE AIR AND SUNSHINE!

I CAN TELL IS, HE'S ON THE TH' CHUNKY SIDE-- COULD BE CL' DOC MITCHART OR--UH--

GIT ME MY SHOOTIN' IRON!! I'D RATHER BE SAFE THAN SORRY

OFF THE COAST OF BRAZIL.

DID YOUR FATHER ALWAYS WEAR BUTTON SHOES, MR. JADE?

YES, SEE? THERE IN THE PHOTO?

'AND YOU'RE POSTER FATHER DIED AT MR. JADE'S? ABSOLUTELY POSITIVE REPLIES JAD

Card Of Thanks
The family of PAUL O'NEILL, SR.
express sincere thanks and gratitude to our friends, neighbors and relatives who were so kind in our bereavement following the death of our husband, father and brother. The many acts of kindness will always be a precious memory.

City Surplus Up $136,414 Over Last Year

Budget Talks Are Under Way

The Mayor and City Council last night began budget talks on a happy note — a report from City Finance Commissioner Frederick J. Hill that the city ended the 1963-1964 fiscal year on June 30 with an operating surplus which is $136,414 higher than last year.

Mr. Hill told the Mayor and Council that the surplus—derived from excess collections and unspent appropriations, totaled $407,414.22 as opposed to the $271,000 which was on hand to provide operating funds last year until tax income begins to come in.

He warned, however, that much of the funds which make up the surplus are non-recurring items and cannot be counted on in making up the new budget.

One factor in the favorable report, he added, is that the city's share of state collected income — the so-called Sherbow funds — are some $68,000 higher than anticipated as a result of improved business conditions in the state and area and rising incomes in the area.

Income Is Up

Another source of extra income was the General and Special Income account, which was $17,951.59 higher than anticipated. Funds in the account include rents, the salvage lease at the city dump, payments on city lots sold, interest on Treasury bills and payments by the Housing Authority in lieu of taxes.

But the biggest source of additional income was the tax levy, which was $135,695.51 higher than anticipated. Factors in the rise were increased assessments and the steady flow of residential, commercial and industrial construction within the city limits.

Mr. Hill pointed out that some of the unspent appropriations represent funds set aside but not needed. For instance, only $1,685.90 of the $10,850 set aside for City Planning was needed, and only about a third of the $9,300 allocated for elections and registration was spent as no special elections were needed.

Formal budget talks began as the Mayor and Council met in the Mayor's Office to hear Paul E. Rodecap, city comptroller, discuss various budget items.

He presented sheets which listed appropriations according to last year's appropriations, last year's spending, the requested budget and the recommended budget.

The recommended budget items have been reached in recent weeks during conferences between the comptroller and department heads.

This same system was used successfully last year, when only minor changes had to be made in the recommended budgets during detailed discussions.

Some of the non-recurring funds in the surplus will undoubtedly be allocated for non-recurring expenses.

Needed To Match
For example, it was fairly well agreed that the Airport budget (Continued on Page 3)

Local Chapter Receives Blood Quota Award

Ranks Fourth In This Region

An award for achieving 14.5 per cent of its blood quota for the year ending June 30 was presented to Allegheny County Chapter, American Red Cross, at a meeting of the executive board of Johnstown Regional Blood Center in Johnstown.

The local chapter attained fourth place rating among the 32 chapters participating in the regional blood program. The rating is based on percentage of the annual quota. Allegheny County Chapter had 24 visits from the bloodmobile unit during the year while the first place chapter had only four.

Total production achieved by the chapter was 3,183 pints of blood. This figure includes direct donors recruited for local hospitals.

Distribution of blood and derivatives to local hospitals amounted to 3,120 bottles of blood and 2,300 cc's serum albumin. Memorial Hospital received 1,632 pints of blood and 1,500 cc's serum albumin; Sacred Heart, 1,008 pints; Miners, 277 pints of blood and 800 cc's serum albumin. Some 203 bottles were distributed to out-of-region hospitals.

Through the fifty-five other American Red Cross blood regions in the United States and in co-operation with the Canadian Red Cross blood program, blood is replaced through the Johnstown Center to almost any hospital in the two countries.

Attending the meeting from the local chapter were Mrs. Harry Beneman, chapter blood chairman and a member of the center's executive committee and Mrs. Sara G. Lindsay, executive director of the chapter. Mrs. Beneman also served as nominating committee chairman at the quarterly meeting when new officers were elected.

Examine Old Western Maryland History

Harold Manakee, third from left, director of the Maryland Historical Society, is shown with three Allegheny County educators examining an 82-year-old History of Western Maryland, during a session of the social studies workshop which ends Friday at Parkside School. Mr. Manakee and his wife spent the day here yesterday offering advice on the curriculum for a proposed seventh grade course in Maryland history and geography. Pictured, left to right, are George K. Conway, social studies teacher at Allegheny High School; Mrs. Frieda H. Massara, first and second grade teacher at Mt. Royal School, holding the old history which she recently acquired; Mr. Manakee and Harry Robert Thomas, principal of McCoolle Elementary School. In the frame in front of Mrs. Massara is a copy of the April 15, 1865, issue of the New York Herald which carried the first account of the assassination of President Abraham Lincoln. It belongs to Mr. Conway. The books in the foreground are relics of an earlier day in Allegheny County and are owned by Mr. Thomas. These include Appleton readers dating from 1878 and 1880.

WILL TEACH — Ronald M. Kyhos, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Kyhos, 822 Windsor Road, has accepted a teaching position in Prince Georges County at Bel Air Junior High School. He is a June graduate of Frostburg State College and was graduated from LaSalle High School in 1960. He received a bachelor of science degree in secondary education and majored in English while at FSC. He was a member of the student senate and Tau Kappa Epsilon international social fraternity while there.

Youths To Face Burglary Charge

Two South End boys, aged 14 and 15, will be tried August 6 in Allegheny County Juvenile Court in connection with the recent burglary of Snyder's Grocery, Williams Road.

Capt. James E. Van of the City Police Detective Bureau arrested the pair a short time after they allegedly broke into the store and took about $30 in cash and $10 worth of merchandise. He said that sufficient evidence has been gathered to implicate the boys, and that as far as he is concerned, "The case has been cleared."

The grocery store was reportedly entered about 2 a.m. on July 20.

Historical Society Head Offers Teachers Advice

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

Members of the Allegheny County workshop on social studies got some sound advice on their proposed curriculum for a seventh grade course in Maryland history and geography from two Baltimoreans who are authorities on the subject.

Back in the spring, the Maryland Historical Society offered its facilities to assist any public school system in the state in providing information concerning the Free State and its heritage. Dr. Thomas G. Pullen Jr., who since has retired as state superintendent of schools, notified all of the school systems of the state about the offer.

A group of some 24 teachers, principals and supervisors are spending six weeks this summer at Parkside Elementary School in LaVale in a social studies workshop. It was natural that they should want to take advantage of this offer, particularly since one of the curriculum changes proposed involves the offering of Maryland history and geography to seventh grade pupils.

Consequently, Dr. Robert J. Shockley, assistant superintendent of schools for curriculum, asked for the assistance of the Maryland Historical Society. So yesterday, Harold R. Manakee, director of the society, and Mrs. Manakee spent the day at Parkside School.

Mrs. Manakee, the former Miss Beta Kaessmann, formerly was an assistant to the librarian at Enoch Pratt Library in Baltimore. Back in 1934, before her marriage, she and Mr. Manakee and Joseph L. Wheeler, a former librarian at Enoch Pratt, collaborated in writing "My Maryland," a 447-page concise history of Maryland from its founding to the present.

"My Maryland" is just one of a relatively large number of publications about Maryland which are available in the schools of Allegheny County.

Mr. Manakee also has written a 197-page book entitled "Maryland In The Civil War," and a 46-page volume called "Indians of Early Maryland." These are two of the many volumes the Maryland Historical Society has which are useful to schools.

There also are post cards, colored slides some 24 leaflets about the state and some of its famous people.

While here, Mr. and Mrs. Manakee also had the opportunity of seeing the historical possessions of three of the educators.

Mrs. Frieda H. Massara, who teaches first and second graders at Mt. Royal School, recently acquired the two-volume Schaff History of Western Maryland published in 1892. The two volumes are well preserved. This publication includes information about six counties, including Garrett, Allegheny, Washington, Frederick, Carroll and Montgomery.

Harry Robert Thomas, principal of McCoolle Elementary School, brought to yesterday's session a number of his possessions which have come down through his family in Frostburg.

Picnic Planned

The Cresaptown Eagles, Aerie 2883 will hold their annual stag picnic Sunday from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. at the Cumberland Fairgrounds.

Laws Affecting Strip Mining To Be Studied

Possible Changes May Be Suggested

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The State Board of Natural Resources set up a committee Monday to study laws controlling strip mining operations in Maryland.

The committee will consider the Maryland laws with a view to suggesting possible changes. It also will look into laws used by other states.

Under present statutes, strip mine operators must post bond in varying amounts with the state before getting a permit. The bond is forfeited if the mine is not filled in when it is abandoned.

In some cases, operators find it cheaper to forfeit bond than to restore the land.

Such abandoned open mines, in addition to disfiguring the landscape, are a source of acid pollution of rivers and lakes.

Kenneth N. Weaver, director of the Maryland Geological Survey, told the board that an estimated 11 miles of strip mines in Western Maryland were dug before the law was passed and are still unrestored.

The meeting was the first for the expanded board created during a general reorganization of the state's natural resources agencies at the last session of the legislature.

The board was given two additional members and its duties were slightly changed.

Income Is Up

Parking meter revenues for the week of July 19 totaled $890, an increase of $66 from the previous week, the Mayor and Council was told yesterday.

Four Vehicles, Stop Light Damaged In Chain Pileup

Two persons were slightly injured and property damage was estimated at $5,200 yesterday when a truck struck one car—knocking it into a second—and then crashed into the rear of a bus.

The multiple collision occurred about 12:30 p.m. at Greene and North Lee streets. The traffic light there was destroyed when one of the cars snapped off a utility pole, and traffic was tied up for about 30 minutes.

According to City Police Officer Carl Stouffer and Cpl. Roy C. Hawse who investigated, Arnold C. Pettigrew, 32, Benjamin Banker Homes, was descending a hill in front of Grace Baptist Church when the brakes of his truck failed.

Pettigrew apparently swerved to the left to avoid a string of cars waiting for the light and

State To Press Several Trials In Circuit Court

Jury Will Decide Shooting Verdict

State's Attorney James S. Getty said yesterday that six criminal trials will be heard in Allegheny County Circuit Court on Thursday and Friday of this week and Monday and Wednesday of next.

The most serious case—in which a 15-year-old local boy is charged with assault with intent to kill—will be heard by a jury on Monday. The defendant is Raymond L. George, 613 North Centre Street, who according to County Investigator William F. Baker, shot and wounded Robert Lee Riggelman on April 13 "without provocation." Riggelman was hospitalized for one week.

In the remaining court cases the State of Maryland charges:

Theodore R. Robertson, Oldtown, with receiving stolen goods. The former county roads foreman reportedly used public funds, equipment and manpower to clear about $500 worth of pulp wood near a worksite and sold the wood to relatives. The trial is scheduled for Thursday.

—Carl Ruse, 28, of 216½ Knox Street with larceny of a motor vehicle. He was arrested by Maryland State Police on July 13 for stealing a car owned by David F. Davis, 436 North Centre Street. The theft was reported earlier the same day. He will be tried Monday.

—Mr. and Mrs. Carl Thomas, Lonaconing, owners of Nellie's Tavern, with selling alcoholic beverages on Sunday. The case will be heard Wednesday.

—Charles Edward Witt, 25, Baltimore, formerly of Mt. Savage, with some 10 burglaries of area establishments and one attempted breaking and entering. He will be tried Wednesday for the string of thefts that included three stops at the Ali Ghan Shrine Club (one unsuccessful), two at Ned's Bar, Mt. Savage, two at Beal's Market, Mt. Savage, three at Poland's Esso Mt. Savage, and one at the Eskimo Snack Bar, also in Mt. Savage. A total of $505 was reportedly taken in the thefts, which extended from May 20 to June 26.

—Catherine Ann Rattigan, 25, Mt. Savage, with forging two checks. The checks, each made out for $20, were cashed at a local liquor store in early June.

Fourteen criminal appeal cases will also be heard in Circuit Court today, tomorrow and Thursday.

Firearms Safety Unit Starts Study

Committee Will Meet September 14

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — The chairman of the State Firearms Safety Committee said Monday he is confident his group will complete study of a possible training program for Maryland in time to report to the general assembly next January.

The committee, with 13 of its 14 members present, held its first meeting to lay the groundwork for the study authorized by the general assembly at the 1964 session.

Co-chairman Daniel A. Poole of the Wildlife Management Institute in Washington said the group discussed the charge from the general assembly to bring back a report on whether Maryland needs a program to train its citizens in the safe handling of guns.

"We first want to get background information on various firearms safety programs being operated in other states," he said.

There are such programs in 35 other states and four Canadian provinces, Poole said.

The committee's next meeting will be in Washington Sept. 14, where members will hear reports on programs in other states and on present private and public school programs in Maryland.

Named as co-chairman along with Poole was Frank Daniel of the National Rifle Association. Dr. Warren R. Evans of the Frederick County Board of Education was chosen secretary.

Sentence Suspended In Theft Of Checks From Local Church

A local 19-year-old youth yesterday received a one-year suspended sentence to the Maryland Institute for Males in connection with the June theft of several checks from Emmanuel Episcopal Church.

Associate Judge Harold E. Naughton placed Charles W. Vinny, 245 North Centre Street, on probation in Allegheny County Juvenile Court on the condition that he make restitution of $210, the amount involved in the theft.

Sentencing of a 13-year-old West Side boy who was also implicated in the theft was delayed. The boy admitted to Capt. James E. Van of the City Police Detective Bureau that he also took a money bag containing $87 from the back seat of a parked car over the weekend. Both incidents will be considered before Juvenile Court action is taken against him.

A 15-year-old local boy has also admitted being involved in a latter theft.

JOSEPH P. FIRLIE

Local Resident Appointed New Parole Officer

Firlie Will Work With James F. Lewis

A local man has been named parole officer for Allegheny and Garrett counties to fill an additional post recently created by the Maryland Department of Parole and Probation with the cooperation of the three circuit court judges in the two counties. Joseph P. Firlie, soon due for his release from active Army service, will take over the new post sometime next week.

He becomes the second state parole officer for this region. James F. (Red) Lewis has been the area's only state parole officer for about five years, his appointment following the death of his predecessor, David Steele.

The increase in the caseload in parole work prompted the creation of the new area post.

Paul C. Wolman, director of the Department of Parole and Probation, in a letter to Associate Judge Harold M. Naughton, said the creation of the second parole officer post here will "enable the department to keep current in its work in Western Maryland."

Mr. Firlie is no stranger to parole work. He served a year as parole officer in Washington County prior to his active duty assignment in the Army Reserve.

Pvt. Firlie currently is stationed at Fort Benning, Ga., but is due home tomorrow.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Raphael A. Firlie, of 13 North Allegheny Street, he is a 1959 graduate of LaSalle High School.

Mr. Firlie received his bachelor of science degree in 1963 from Mt. St. Mary's College. He was formerly employed by the Times and Allegheny Company and is a member of Cumberland Council 586, Knights of Columbus.

In his letter, Mr. Wolman thanked Associate Judges W. Earle Cobey, Stuart F. Hammill and Naughton for making the necessary arrangements for the new job.

Already, workers are making provisions for a new office for Mr. Lewis and Mr. Firlie in Allegheny County Court House. A lounge area in the corridor leading to Judge Cobey's office will be remodeled for their office space.

Model Of Center City Project Being Prepared

Directors of the Cumberland Urban Renewal Agency were told last night that the planning firm of Simonds and Simonds is preparing a three-dimensional model of the Center-City general neighborhood renewal program.

Jackson R. Seay, planner for the firm, told CURA directors last night that the four by eight-foot model will be turned over to the agency in December.

He said the model will indicate the future circulation system for the center of the city, buildings which are scheduled to remain in the downtown business area and possible new buildings which will be erected in the area, along with suggested pedestrian malls and landscaping.

Mr. Seay reported the model will be large enough to show the plan in detail.

The directors indicated general approval to a proposal for revising the boundaries of the general neighborhood renewal program to take in a smaller area between the Thruway and the southern boundary and the B&O Viaduct and the northern boundary.

Restricting the area was suggested due to a federal requirement that all of a GNRP area must be in urban renewal project execution within a 10-year period.

Appeals Are Filed

The claimant as well as employer and insurer have filed appeals in Allegheny County Circuit Court from a decision and order of the Workmen's Compensation Commission.

Claimant is John G. Powers, retired Cumberland policeman, who was injured in a fall at the A&P parking lot in 1958 while he was employed on a part-time basis.

He was granted a supplemental award of $16,000 by the commission. The award is dated to start as of May 1, 1959 subject to a credit for payments made for permanent partial disability of an order dated March 22, 1960.

Electric Power Disrupted In Summer Storm

Tree On West Side Hit By Lightning

A bolt of lightning reportedly hit a tree in the vicinity of Sperry Terrace and electric power was disrupted in the Willowbrook and DeHaven roads sections about 6 p.m. yesterday during the height of a treacherous thunderstorm which was accompanied by a hard driving rain.

Within a period of a half hour the temperature dropped nearly 20 degrees from a sweltering 92 degrees to a cooling 73 degrees.

More hot and sunny weather is promised for today by the Weather Bureau which forecasts temperature readings in the high 80s or low 90s in the tri-state area. Scattered thundershowers are forecast for Western Pennsylvania.

Firemen from West Side station were called at 6 p.m. yesterday after a bolt of lightning reportedly hit a tree in the 800-block of Sperry Terrace. However when they arrived the fire was out apparently because of the downpour of rain.

A spokesman for the Potomac Edison Company said it was surprised a transformer was knocked out in the vicinity of Willowbrook Road and a line fuse knocked out in the area of DeHaven Road.

Electrical power to about 15 customers in the two sections of the Cumberland area was disrupted by the storm and employees of PE were called to repair the damage.

A television line was reported down in the vicinity of Cresap Drive and a service line was reported down in the area of Mason's farm, the spokesman said.

The hard driving rain centered in the Cumberland and LaVale areas. A resident of Frostburg said there was a shower in that community early yesterday afternoon.

The current heat wave is reflected in the water consumption report made yesterday to the Mayor and Council by Ray Nixon, water plant foreman.

He said the water consumption for the week ending Sunday was 110,770,000 gallons compared to 97,560,000 gallons for the previous week.

The increase in water use was also noticed in the report on levels at the two dams. Lake Gordon, which a week ago was five feet five inches below the crest was reported at six feet below yesterday; and Lake Koon which was level with the crest last week was a foot below yesterday.

Armed Robbery Case Set Today

The trial of a 19-year-old Mouth-of-Seneca, W. Va., man, indicted for breaking and entering and larceny of property from two Petersburg business places last February, started yesterday but will be continued August 24 in Grant County Circuit Court.

James P. Geary, prosecuting attorney, said last night that shortly after the jury trial of Nathan A. Dove began, his attorney asked for continuance of the trial since a material witness had failed to show up for the trial.

The court ruled that the trial will continue at 9 a. m. Monday, August 24. The defendant is charged with breaking and entering Bond's Jewelry Store and taking a number of diamond rings and also breaking into the Valley Supply and Feed Store and stealing a number of power saws.

The trial which began yesterday and will be continued next month involves the theft of the saws, according to Mr. Geary who said Dove will be tried on the other charge during the November term of Circuit Court.

Scheduled to begin this morning at 9 o'clock is the trial of Roy Lee Holloway, 33, who was indicted for the armed robbery of an elderly Petersburg area farmer April 14.

Authorities said Holloway will be tried in connection with the robbery of $9,000 from Evers Groves, about 84, who resides on a farm three miles north of Petersburg.

Also scheduled to be tried in connection with the robbery is a companion, Carman E. Bergdoll, 51, who was indicted on charges of being an accessory before the fact in the armed robbery.
